WEATHER.

The official local forecast for to-day and to-morrow is warmer and cloudy, with possibly light sprinkle to-night.

Observer Hagen says: "The warm wave has now reached the Atlantic coast, creating cloudy weather in its path. Cloudy weather prevails throughout the United States except in Minnesota and Dakotas. The "low" reported yesterday has entirely disappeared into Canada this morning, and another "low" is now reported on the northwest border. This insures us continued warm and cloudy weather for a couple of days longer. The highest temperature this morning is 64 degrees in Texas; the lowest is 10 degrees in Minnesota. The highest here yesterday was 40 degrees; the lowest this morning was 31 degrees.

Forecast for western New York and Ohio—Southerly winds; slightly warmer and generally fair weather to-day; cloudiness and local rains are probable to-night and Saturday.

For Indiana and Illinois—Southerly winds and generally fair to-day; local rains to-night and probably Saturday; no decided change in temperature.

For Michigan—Southerly winds; cloudiness and possibly light rain or flurries of snow; stationary temperature.

For Wisconsin—Winds becoming warmer, southerly; fair weather to-day; increasing cloudiness and local rains to-night and probably Saturday.

BATTLE REPORTED,

Latest Information from Turbulent Brazil.

Northern Provinces Reported Growing Uneasy.

Two Members of the Junta Have Resigned.

Fonseca, on the Other Hand, Reported All Serene.

He Has Polled the States and Claims to Have Evidence of the People's Loyalty—He Will Abdicate as Soon as the New Elections Are Over.

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 20.—There was an influx here yesterday of refugees from Brazil who had come by way of Montevideo. These had an opportunity of joining the movement in Rio Grande do Sul but declined to do so, because, while opposed to Fonseca and attached to the republic, they are also opposed to any division of the republic.

Fonseca is hastening preparations for the new elections, being alarmed by the signs of popular dissatisfaction with a dictatorship, and he has promised to lay down the powers he has assumed as soon as the new congress comes into existence.

Fonseca has increased the pay of the army officers who have absolute control over the men, the latter being hardly capable of intelligent reasoning and blindly obedient to their superiors.

As the soldiers are excluded from voting they feel little interest in questions of civil government.

Da Fonseca's strong point is said to be his popularity with the commanding officers, with nearly all of whom he is on terms of comradeship, and who look on his government as their own creation.

Many refugees were leaving Rio Janeiro not so much on account of any present danger as of what might happen in the event of a struggle that threatened the capital.

Fonseca's Position.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Herald's Brazilian advices are to the effect that from official sources the statement is made that the dictator Fonseca has heard by wire from all of the governors of the states in the republic and that every message announces adherence to the new form of government.

On the other hand it is asserted that Fonseca has imprisoned all of the deputies from the state of Rio Grande do Sul with the exception of four, who fled in time to avoid arrest.

Admiral Waudenkolk, it is asserted, has joined the insurgents. The latter have named Gen. Ossorio as the chief of their military forces.

A government gunboat and a torpedo boat have reached the mouth of the Rio Grande river, but the insurgents successfully defended the passage. The vessels engaged the land batteries, but at last accounts had failed to force the passage.

Uruguay has officially announced that it will remain neutral in the present difficulty. Baron Lucerna, president of Fonseca's council of ministers, has proposed to the insurgents that they state their grievances, and also on what conditions they will disperse their forces and bring the insurrection to an end.

Dr. Assiz Brazil and Baros Casal, two of the most prominent members of the junta, have resigned all connection with the revolutionary movement in consequence of differences of opinion in that body. Fonseca's overthrow and humiliation appear to be the sole idea that now possesses the minds of the insurgents. The revolutionary troops remain in barracks inactive. The leaders of the junta are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Senator Ramon Barcellos.

Passengers on ships that have just reached Montevideo from northern Brazil say that the northern states of the republic are discontented and on the verge of revolt. Preparations are already being made for an attack against the dictator.

A Battle Reported.

London, Nov. 20.—The cablegrams this morning from Brazil briefly announce that there has been a sharp engagement off Rio Grande, at the entrance to the lake or river leading up to Porto Alegro, the capital of the new "Republica do Sul," where the vessels sent en reconnoisance by Marshal da Fonseca were defeated.

They found that the insurgents had most cleverly fortified the approaches to the bar, near Rio Grande, over which vessels drawing only 13 feet can pass, and that a heavy bombardment was necessary to force that passage.

The two gunboats and the torpedo boats, sent to reconnoitre the place, appear, according to the cable message referred to, to have been hit several times.

One of the gunboats is reported as severely damaged and the torpedo boat which pushed pluckily to the front and tried to get over the bar, is reported to have been "riddled by gatling guns." From this it is presumed that a rapid fire gun was brought to bear upon her and succeeded in finding the bulls-eye.

Begging for Peace.

The Times this morning prints a dispatch from its correspondent at Santiago de Chili, saying that Baron Lucerna, the president of Marshal Da Fonseca's council of ministers, has telegraphed to the junta, in the name of Fonseca, begging for peace and offering to restore or to establish any form of local self government that the people of Rio Grande do Sul desire.

The junta is also asked to state the cause of their grievances and to name the conditions upon which they will disband their forces.

To this appeal, according to the Times' dispatch, the junta promptly replied that it would only disarm its forces when Marshal Da Fonseca has resigned the presidency and the dictatorship and when the constitution of the United States of Brazil is again respected throughout the length and breadth of Brazil.

All differences of opinion among the members of the junta seem to have been definitely settled by the withdrawal of the "peace at any price" party from their councils. It is reported in this connection that Dr. Assiz Brazil and Gen. Barros Cassel have, in consequence of the bitter feeling expressed towards Da Fonseca and his party resigned all affiliation with the revolutionary movement. As Dr. Assiz Brazil was recently announced to have been selected as minister of war for the junta, this report is another of those which need confirmation.

Fonseca Must Go.

According to one cable message received here Da Fonseca's overthrow seems to be the main point which the junta and its supporters now have in view, and it is said they would be satisfied with nothing less than his downfall and his punishment for violating the constitution of Brazil and assuming the powers of a dictator.

The Times' dispatches say that warlike preparations are continuing with enthusiasm and increased vigor in the province of Rio Grande and that a formidable army will soon be mustered under the new flag of the revolted province (a white ground with a red ball).

Later.—From another source comes a cablegram saying simply:

"Fonseca's warship failed to force a passage of the Rio Grande."

From this it is judged that the report as to the attack made by the dictator's two gunboats and a torpedo boat previously refered to, is, in the main, correct.

BRICE WILL NOT RESIGN,

And Campbell Will Not Be Elected in His Place.

Political Prevaricators at a Loss for Something to do Start Another Lie on the Rounds.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The talk that Senator Brice would resign before the next general assembly convenes and another democrat be elected in his pjlace, has broken out again.

This time it is proposed that the outgoing legislature shall elect Governor Campbell in Brice's place. There are two important elements lacking in carrying out this arrangement. In the first place, Mr. Brice has no idea of resiguing.

In the second place if he should, Governor Campbell would not accept the United States senatorship on a golden platter garnished with "old mint" Brazillian diamonds of the first water. The governor regards the United States senate as a respectable place to which old gentlemen may retire and commune with each other.

When there is an exception it is in the case of some rich young man who may break in simply for a little diversion. Governor Campbell has no disposition to disturb the repose and serenity of the United States senate. He would not if he could. In the next four years he will be a very busy man and expects to recoup in personal estate what he has lost by neglecting business in his congressional and gubernatorial career.

He does not consider the quiet retreat of the senate a fitting place for a man who has this task on his hands. While there is not the remotest possibility of Senator Brice's resignation, I feel fully authorized to say that should such a thing happen the governor would favor the election of his personal friend, Colonel James E. Neal. Governor Campbell is to-day visiting his son at Yale college. He will spend a few days in New York, returning here Thanksgiving. He will, on the 30th inst., address the Ohio Society in Chicago at their first annual banquet.

CLAUDE MEEKER.

HARRISON SNUBBED HIM.

The President Was Going Hunting and Did Not Have Time to Talk with the Man Who Owns Ohio

Washington, Nov. 20.—(Special)—Democrats are just now having a good laugh at Foraker's expense. When he was here a few days ago he talked much about the Ohio senatorship, and told how the people were rising to his support and demanding that Sherman should be retired.

After doing some business Foraker went over to the white house to call on the president. There was no brass band there and Foraker was a little chilled at the coolness of his reception.

When he went into the executive office the President shook hands with him cordially and said: "I am very glad to see you, Mr. Foraker, but you will have to excuse me, as I am going shooting this afternoon."

"Don't mention it, Mr. President," said Foraker, and he darted out of the room in two seconds by the watch after he had entered it.

Foraker immediately started for Ohio with a full determination to hand the state over to Blaine in 1892.

A SPLIT IN THE PARTY,

High Old Times at the Indianapolis Meeting.

The Sub-Treasury Scheme Caused the Trouble.

The Third Party People Score a Success and the F. M. B. A. Delegates Cheer the Result to the Echo.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—The people's party has captured the alliance. The alliance has split on the sub-treasury scheme. These are the net results of the sessions of the various farmers' organizations now gathered here. The evidences of the split was public before that of the capture.

When the supreme council of the alliance met everybody but delegates was excluded from the hall. Even Congressman Jerry Simpson had to go. Then the protest of the anti-sub-treasury people was taken up and a somewhat animated debate occurred as to the best means of disposing of it with the least possible friction.

Finally, after two hours of wrangling, the committee of the antis was informed that they could not be heard unless they furnished the council with a copy of the protest.

This the antis refused to do unless they could present their protest in person, and that ended the negotiations between the two wings of the alliance. The protest, which is very long, was in substance as follows:

Anti-Sub-Treasury Protest

The protest sets forth that the authors are a committee of the Farmers' and Laborers' union convention held in St. Louis in September, composed of R. W. Nichols of Missouri; P. J. Patillo of Texas; B. F. Passmere of Mississippi; J. W. Crews of Tennessee; and U. S. Hall, W. S. McAllister and W. Pope Yeaman at large, which committee was appointed to memorialize the supreme council for the Farmers' alliance and Industrial union by way of setting forth objections of the convention to certain declarations of principles and demands hitherto made by the supreme council. This committee after its organization prepared the views of the convention touching the principles and demands of the supreme council from which a large number of the members of the Farmers' and Laborers' union dissented. The memorial respectfully and earnestly protests against any action of the supreme council that proposes to commit the Farmers' alliance and Industrial union to the proposition that provision be made by the federal congress for government loans of money to individual citizens upon farm mortgages as security, or to the demand for government ownership or control of railroad property and transportation. These schemes are unconstitutional, impracticable, conflicting with the spirit of the alliance, and tending to government paternalism and state socialism. The government naturally looks to the citizen for the supply of all its legitimate wants, an inversion of which state of affairs would make the government an engine of oppression and the citizens helpless and dependent. The progress and prosperity of the individual, as also the stability and beneficence of social institutions must be left by any free government to individual thought, effort and enterprise. Any other system would dwarf the individual and abnomally magnify the government. Any assumption of the rights and duties of the citizen by government menaces the truly American principle that government is of the people, by the people and for the people. Instead of relief from present oppression the measures promise greater evils. The scheme would be partial to certain classes involving business details too deep for the average farmer; attendant expense would make the market price of money higher, and would open an avenue for sharpers to trade upon the farmers' hard-earned goods and products. The markets would be overloaded with produce, putting down the value of commodities, and raising taxation. Alabama, Mississippi and Missouri furnished examples of how smilar schemes to the sub-treasury project failed signally. The land loan scheme, beyond promising a low rate of interest, presents no favorable features, the expense of maintenance being enormous. Government ownership of railroads implies one of the two other schemes. Either the government must take railroads from owners by force, or buy them for more than they are worth. It would foster political corruption, and it would be an arbitrary interference with private rights in many senses. The three schemes flavor strongly of class legislation.

In conclusion the committee expresses its desire to co-operate with the alliance in carrying out its principles, securing safe currency, ridding the land of trusts and monopolies, helping the farmer and the laborers, securing an honest ballot and fair count, and selecting for places of public honor and emolument honest and capable men who regard public office not as a private advantage but a public trust.

The executive committee of the anti-sub-treasury party will now proceed to Texas, where 127 sub-alliances have already declared against the sub-treasury scheme, and will begin the work of organizing a new alliance. A call for a national convention will probably be issued to-morrow.

The capture of the alliance by the people's party was practically accomplished two or three days ago, but the full extent of the capture was not apparent until President Polk was unanimously re elected and H. L. Loucks of South Dakota was chosen vice-president, J. H. Turner was re-elected secretary and treasurer, and J. F. Willets of Kansas, national lecturer.

Mr. George F. Washburn of the national executive committee of the people's party stated that the leaders of that party were jubilant over the election of President Polk. Of the four great leaders in the alliance, Messrs. Livingstone, Macune, Terrell and Polk, the latter was regarded as the one favorable to independent political action.

Mr. Polk, in his annual address Tuesday night, so severely condemned the two old parties, and in the address as well as between the lines so strongly indicated his tendencies to the people's party movement that the election of either one of the other gentlemen mentioned would have been regarded as a blow to the people's party, while on the other hand the reelection of President Polk is regarded as a great victory for the people's party.

The election of Mr. H. L. Loucks of South Dakota as vice president is regarded as a greater victory, from the fact that he is a member of the national committee of the people's party. The fact that a large number of farmers' alliance delegates are also members of the other industrial organizations and working together would indicate that the trend of their action was toward the unification of all and in the direction of independent political action.

The committee on confederation of the various industrial organizations met this morning at the Hotel Dennison. This committee was composed of five representatives from each of six organizations and was chosen by the latter for the purpose of calling a congress of all the labor and industrial classes.

It has been decided previous to this gathering to convene the congress at Washington on Feb. 22, but the south and west made such strong objections to the place that it became necessary to decide upon some other location. The duty of the present meeting of the committee was to fix this place.

The matter occasioned lengthy discussion and ended in referring the question to a sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. Terrell, Taubeneck and Baumgarten, with instructions that either Indianapolis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago or Springfield, Ill., be chosen.

The Reform Press.

The Reform Press association elected officers this morning as follows: Dr. S. McLallin of the Topeka Advocate, president; vice president, J. H. McDowell of the Tennessee Toiler; secretary-treasurer, W. S. Morgan of the National Reformer of St. Louis.

At a joint meeting of the alliance and the F. M. B. A. the third party movement was indorsed amid the wildest enthusiasm. The F. M. B. A. elected S. S. Gause of Missouri president, W. A. Bartlett of West Virginia vice president, and J. P. Stelle of Illinois secretary-treasurer.

DE GIERS AND CAPRIVI.

They Will Meet at a Dinner in the Russian House in Berlin.

London, Nov. 20.—A dispatch from Berlin says that Chancellor Von Caprivi has accepted an invitation from Count Schouvaloff, the Russian ambassador, to meet M. De Giers, the Russian foreign minister, at a dinner to be given at the Russian embassy in Berlin.

The dispatch further announces that it is semi-officially stated that the report that M. De Giers went to Paris for the purpose of concluding a treaty of alliance between Russia and France is baseless.

His only object in visiting Monza, where he met King Humbert and the Marquis di Rudini, was the hope of exchanging views that would tend to consolidate the peace of Europe, and that is also the only object he has in visiting Paris and Berlin.

THEY BACK DOWN A PEG,

Chili Begins to Treat Us With Respect.

The Movements of Our Warships Showing Results.

Points Absolutely Refused a Few Days Ago Are Now Granted With Pleasure—Admiral Montt Unanimously Elected.

New York, Nov. 20.—Special dispatches to the Herald from Valparaiso say that Chili has at length conceded a point to the United States in her treating of the case of the assault upon the Baltimore's sailors.

Capt. Schley yesterday received a notice granting his request that the United States representatives be furnished by the court of inquiry with copies of all depositions made before it in the investigation.

It will be remembered that this same request had been absolutely refused on all previous occasions.

It is supposed the Chilian authorities finding that our government was maintaining a fair but firm attitude, has determined to meet it half way.

It has become known here and in Santiago that the United States was dispatching a large number of warships to the Pacific squadron, and there is no doubt that this news had a salutary effect in Chili.

The electoral college unanimously voted for Admiral Jorge Montt as president of the republic.

A large fire occurred in Santiago Wednesday, which destroyed several buildings facing the municipal theater. The destruction of the theater was threatened at one time.

THE TIDE IS TURNING.

Foraker's Skyrocket About Ready to Explode.

It Made a Screeching, Brilliant Display for a Moment, But Went Up So High It May Never Get Down.

Wauseon, Nov. 20.—(Special)—"Foraker, Foraker! Hurrah for Foraker! He's the man! the only man!" The above illustrates about the situation of affairs preceding and immediately following the late election.

The observer would have thought that all that was wanting was the meeting of the next legislature and the necessary railroad passes and J. B. would be in the senatorial seat. But now that business has settled down, the cool, quiet and calm politicians and business men have looked the ground over and with no great show of lung power mildly express their preference for Sherman. From a one-sided wail and howl for Foraker to a earnest, thoughtful appeal for Sherman, the tide has been turned and a poll of the city shows that it is about evenly divided for Sherman and Foraker.

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 20.—Rose Johnson, 50 years old, was found dead last night in the house of Wm. Ward, a wood chopper, in East Rahway. There were marks on her head that looked as if she had been beaten with a club. She has for some time been housekeeper for Ward, who is missing. There is a general air of mystery about the affair which the police are trying to unravel.

UNDER CONTROL.

London, Nov. 20.—A semi-official report has reached here from Shanghai, to the effect that the situation arising from the recent action of Chinese mobs in attacking and threatening foreigners in Hunan, is more satisfactory, owing to the energetic action of the powers through their ministers.

WITH BLOOD IN HIS EYE.

Minnesota Man Who Carried a Gun.

He Fired at an Acquaintance and Then Filled Himself Full of Deadly Bullets.

Chaska, Minn., Nov. 20.—When the 8 o'clock passenger train from Minneapolis pulled into Carver, Minn., last evening Charles Feisner, a section foreman, got off and, meeting Andrew Stohl on the platform, said, "Now I've got you and I'm going to kill you."

While speaking he drew a revolver and fired at Stohl twice, one shot taking effect in the face, inflicting a fatal wound. Feisner then fired two shots at himself, both bullets entering his forehead near the eyes, from which wounds he died in an hour. It is supposed some love affair is at the bottom of it.

FAILED TO DODGE THE CHARGE.

Boston, Nov. 20.—Wm. A. Kiel, of New York, who is wanted, it is said, in New York for an alleged forgery, was arrested here yesterday. Kiel when arrested shot himself in the head, but the doctors think he will pull through.

OWEN MURPHY IS HOME.

He Talks on the Affairs of Canada.

How He Bribed His Way to Riches.

According to His Own Story He Bribed Everybody and in Five Years Would Have Owned All of Canada.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Times this morning says that Owen Murphy, who, in 1877, when treasurer of the excise board, vanished with $50,000 in license fees, since which time he has resided in Canada, has returned to this city and taken up his residence in the upper part of Madison avenue.

Recently the dominion scandals, in which he figured, made Canada too warm for him, and, in company with Robert H. McGreevy, one of his fellow "boodle" contractors, he slipped across the border, and the two were soon in New York.

The pair have been in the city for three weeks, but have until yesterday remained unrecognized. McGreevy is now living on east Twenty-sixth street.

Murphy talked freely to the Times reporter, saying that there was no indictment of any sort hanging over him in New York, and that he was safe here. He claimed that he and McGreevy had escaped from Canada because they had been made the victims of a bitter political persecution.

He acknowledged without hesitation that he and his associates had secured their immense public contracts in Canada by bribing the public officials. "We bribed them all," he said, smilingly, "and gradually acquired nearly everything in sight. We literally owned the province, and if they had let us alone for five years more we would have owned the Canadian Pacific railway and nearly the whole of Canada."

ON STATE LANDS.

Many People and Corporations Will Have to Pay Up.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—The state canal commissioner has completed the survey of the Licking reservoir, and finds that large tracts of land lying around the basin are occupied by citizens and corporations who have not legal right of possession.

The hotel at Avondale stands on state land. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is occupying 13 acres unlawfully. The Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking railroad company has a station and grain elevator on land belonging to the state, and the Toledo & Ohio Central road extends for some distance on state lands.

Proceedings will be instituted to recover possession of the land, which is valued, in all, at many thousands of dollars.

ARE OPPOSED TO MILLS,

New England Congressmen Getting Together.

They Will Pick Out a Candidate for Speaker and Support Him Against the Man from Texas.

Boston, Nov. 20.—The Advertiser says all the democratic congressmen of the New England states, excepting Messrs. Daniell of New Hampshire, and Sperry and Wilcox of Connecticut, met here yesterday for the purpose of discussing the question of the speakership of the next house.

The fact was developed that there was much opposition to Mr. Mills' candidacy. The question of an acceptable candidate was debated for a long time but no agreement was reached and the meeting adjourned to meet again a day or two before Thanksgiving.

FATAL PARALYSIS.

Mansfield, O., Nov. 20.—John C. Vennum, an old resident and well-known business man of this city, aged 68 years, sustained a fatal stroke of paralysis this afternoon. He had been in usual health until last night, and was up and about the house to-day when death came.

REPUBLICANS AT WORK.

Two Great Conventions to be Held.

New York Is in the Field and Is Bound to Have One of Them Within Its Borders.

New York, Nov. 20.—At the executive committee meeting of the national league of clubs 26 states were represented, with President Clarkson in the chair.

The question of time and place for holding the next annual league convention came up. A committee presented the claim of Buffalo for the honor. This city, however, opposed the Buffalo claim on the ground that should the league decide upon that city as the place for holding its next convention the national republican committee could hardly decide upon New York as the place for the national convention.

Edward P. Allen thought that Detroit was entitled to the choice. George W. Patchet, of Union City, Ind., said that the distinction belonged to Indianapolis. Minneapolis and Omaha kept quiet, not caring to present their respective claims until it was decided where the national convention should be held.

After much talk the matter was referred to a sub-committee with power to act. If New York gets the national convention Buffalo will withdraw its claim for the league convention; if, however, the national convention goes west Indianapolis will not insist on her claim.

In the event of the national convention being held in this city then it will be a fight between Omaha, Indianapolis and Minneapolis for the convention of the national republican league.

The finance committee of the committee appointed to meet the national republican committee and endeavor to secure the next convention for New York city held a preliminary meeting last night. The reports received were encouraging, showing that many thousands of dollars had already been raised.

A committee of one hundred will leave here Saturday for Washington to press New York's claims.

LEAVING PALO ALTO.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Charles Marvin, the famous driver who has managed the trotting division of the Palo Alto stock farm for many years, will shortly retire. He will go into the business for himself.

Another driver, Goldsmith, who has been with Wm. Corbett for some time, will shortly leave that gentleman's employ.

VIOLATORS OF THE LAW.

Smuggling Goes on Without Opposition.

Special Agent Tingle Points Out the Evils

And Says the Government Appropriations Are Not Large Enough to Stop Them—Canada the Base from Which They Are Operated.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Mr. T. A. Tingle, supervising special agent of the treasury department, in his annual report to the secretary of the treasury, shows that during the past fiscal year the special agents seized goods to the value of $143,236, and recovered $225,690 on account of seizures, fines, duties, etc. He gives several instances of fraudulent importations and refers to the difficulties under which the agents conduct their operations.

Mr. Tingle says: "The work of the office has not been accomplished without some irritation and instances of criticism in the public press, inspired doubtless by those whose invoices have been called in question, as well as by merchants of unquestioned integrity who have unadvisedly given ear to the complaints of agents of foreign manufacturers seeking admission of their goods as fictitious values to the manifest loss of revenue and injury to honest trade. It is unfortunate, truly, that public officers, on account of such opposition and criticism, sometimes shrink from the performance of a plain duty. A serious question is the great difficulty under present conditions of enforcing laws against smugglers, who make the dominion of Canada the base of their operations.

"The number of officers for preventive duty upon this long line frontier does not exceed 20, and the present customs appropriations will not admit of any material increase of this force. It is apparent that their efforts to prevent smuggling are in a large degree futile. A similar condition of affairs exists upon the long boundary line between the United States and Mexico. The district of Puget Sound comprising many islands within a few miles of British territory, and a long line of water front furnish facilities for smuggling and the clandestine introduction of Chinese against which the customs officers have vainly contended.

"I am reliably informed that during the last year 125,000 pounds of crude opium were imported and manufactured at Victoria, making about 70,000 pounds of the prepared article for smoking purposes, and that nearly every pound of it was smuggled into the United States. It is more profitable to take the risk of an occasional capture and confiscation than to pay the enormous duty of $12 per pound, which is prohibitive of legitimate importations and is the less essential basis of the smuggler's profit. Reduce the duty to $4 per pound and his occupation will be gone. The present arrangement benefits the Canadian government, which collects $1 per pound upon the crude opium used in the manufacture of the prepared article. Our tariff act of 1890 admits crude opium containing 9 per cent. of morphia free, but imposes $12 per pound upon opium of a lower grade, such as is used in the preparation of the drug for smoking purposes, the same rate as is imposed upon prepared opium. The practical effect of this is that the revenue formerly derived from imported opium is turned over to Canada and the smugglers. It were better to declare all opium free of duty than to leave the present laws on the statute book. The enormous profits in opium smuggling, due entirely to the high duty, have induced the employment of large capital and a great number of bold and skillful men to engage in the illicit traffic made so alluring by existing laws.

"But the smuggling of the opium is not the only alarming consequence following the opening up of the railways through Manitoba, the northwest territory and British Columbia. The various acts of congress having for their object the exclusion of Chinese labor from the United States are practically nullified by the clandestine introduction of Chinese coming direct from China through the dominion of Canada. The steamers of the Canadian Pacific Railroad company land Chinese at Vancouver by thousands. The Canadian government collects a head tax of $50 in each Chinese person and gives him a certificate which enables him to return to Canada without payment of tax a second time should he be defeated in entering the United States. The courts in several cases have given the construction that Canada and not China, was the country whence these Chinamen came, within the meaning of the law. The effect of this is that Chinese persons once returned to Canada again enter the country, and repeated instances of this kind have occurred. Thus the object of the Chinese restriction act is practically defeated.

"The necessity for a revision of the customs laws and particularly for the reorganization of customs districts with a view to the abolishment or consolidation of districts in which little or no business is done, is shown by the business of the several districts during the last fiscal year. In 31 districts and ports no duty was collected, and on 43 of them the expenses exceeded the receipts. The decay of commerce in many of the old customs districts, coupled with the rapid growth of the northwest and the need for the creation of new posts and districts upon the coast as well as frontier, would seem to demand new and comprehensive legislation upon the subjects."

CUT THROUGH A WHALE.

The Ethiopia Has a Peculiar Experience.

She Struck a Whale Squarely Amidships and Cut the Huge Monster in Two.

New York, Nov. 20.—When a whale runs afoul of a big iron steamship going 16 knots an hour the whale is apt to get the worst of the encounter. That is what happened to a whale which got in the way of the Ethiopia, of the anchor line.

It happened when the Ethiopia was about 800 miles east of Sandy Hook, shortly after 10 o'clock last Saturday morning. The weather was clear, sea smooth, sun shining, and most of the passengers were on the deck enjoying the scene. Second Officer Fife was on the bridge.

Suddenly right ahead up shot a stream of water. Then appeared the huge back of a whale. The monster was so near that a collision was inevitable. The sharp iron prow of the steamship struck the whale right amidships, as sailors would say. Before the whale could possibly have formed any notion of what was the matter with it it had been cut in halves.

The force of the collision caused the big steamship to tremble from stem to stern, but she was uninjured. A trail of blood from the whale was left in her wake. The passengers for a time were somewhat excited.

DESIRES TO BEAR TESTIMONY.

Henry Thorne, traveling secretary of the Y. M. C. A., writes from Exeter Hall, Strand, London, February 2, 1888: "I desire to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for pains in the back and side arising from rheumatic and other causes, never without deriving benefit from their application. They are easily applied and very comforting. Those engaged as I am in public work which involves exposure to sudden changes of temperature, will do well to keep a supply of Allcock's Porous Plasters in their portmanteaus."

Arranging to Build a National Sanitarium

Down in the Lone Star State—An Old Toledoan Who Will Profit by the Location—Something of the Proposed Structure.

Mr. W. S. Isherwood, formerly of this city, now living at Austin, Tex., where he is a large owner of real estate adjoining that city, writes to friends in Toledo that the National Travelers' Protective association have selected Austin as the place where they will build the National Sanitarium. It will be virtually a Traveling Man's or Drummers' home, a place where they can spend their vacations, get the best the market affords and enjoy the beauty of Austin and its healthy balmy climate. The site selected is adjoining Mr. Isherwood's property, and within a mile from the present capitol. There will be expended over $100,000 for the buildings, and electric street cars, water works, etc., will be conducted to these grounds. Mr. Isherwood thinks that his property has been fully doubled by this location, and as it has already been plotted for the sale of lots, his many former friends in this city will rejoice in his good fortune.

The following, taken from the Austin Daily Statesman, will be of interest to traveling men in this section of the country:

A Statesman reporter yesterday met Mr. S. A. Brown, the president of the Texas division of the T. P. A. and one of the committee who selected the site for the sanitarium. In the course of the conversation Mr. Brown said:

"I think the selection we have made is not only the best for the T. P. A., but is also the best for Austin. It opens up a part of your city that has heretofore been occupying a back seat. The location, in point of beauty and convenience, in my opinion, cannot be equalled. True, it will not be on the lake, but as we are going to build a club house there we will reap it benefits and enjoy its pleasures and matchless beauties."

Continuing Mr. Brown said:

"We selected the site which, in our judgment, was for the best interest of the association. Messrs. C. M. Rogers J. J. Tobin, H. A. Fitzhugh, G. G. Fitzhugh and Nelson Davis have given a $50,000 bond to have an electric line running direct from the union depot to the home, and to furnish water and gas."

When do you exect to begin work on the building?"

"We cannot begin work on the building until after the next annual meeting in June, but we will begin beautifying the grounds next month. A short distance from the building site there is a beautiful grove. All it needs to be a perfect park is to thin out and trim up the trees. This we do next month. We will also plant a number of shade trees in December. The work on the building will not commence, however, before next July."

"What does the association figure on the building costing?"

"We have had plans drawn up already which will cost $250,000, but I think they will be remodeled so as to bring the cost down to about $150,000. I would like to say, while I think of it; that the sanitarium and drummers home is not, as a great many people think, a hospital. Of course the T. P. A. boys who are sick will be received and cared for, but the object the association had in building a sanitarium was to have a place that we could call home; a place that we can spend our vacations, get the best the market affords and secure needed rest, and at the same time enjoy ourselves. Mark what I tell you the day the sanitarium is opened there will be at the least calculation fifty rooms engaged and I'll venture to say not by rich drummers either, but by boys who are off for two months and want to take it easy. I can't see how the impression got out it would be for the sick."

"I suppose the T. P. A. boys will take great interest in Austin, now that their home has been located here?"

"Well I should say they would. Do you know what we are going to do? Every T. P. A. member in the United States will get a plat of the site, with instructions to work for Austin, talk for Austin, and especially the T. P. A.'s addition to Austin. Another thing, we have to appoint a board of trustees to look after the work here and our committee have recommended Messrs. E. R. Singleton and H. A. Fitzhugh, of your city, as members of this board. There will be five in all, two of whom will be from outside the state. With several thousand T. P. A. boys talking Austin all the time, there is no reason why the capital city of Texas will not be one of the most prominent in the United State.

Mr. Brown is also chairman of the national finance committee, and is probably one of the best posted T. P. A. boys in the association. He is one of the charter members and one of the hardest workers in the association. The association has $30,000 to the credit of the building fund.

BOTH DIED.

BACK AS FROM THE DEAD.

A Mother Discovers Her Long Lost Son.

The Father Eloped Twenty Years Ago with the Servant Girl and the Then Three-Year-Old Boy.

Atlanta, Nov. 20.—Mrs. James Calvo has found her son whom she had mourned as dead for more than a score of years. Her husband eloped with the servant girl 20 years ago, taking with him their 3-year-old boy.

A few months later she received a letter from a stranger in New York informing her that Calvo, the girl and the child were lost at sea while on the way to Europe.

Calvo had gone to New York and caused the letter to be sent her, giving circumstantial details of a fictitious shipwreck. He then went to a small town in New Jersey, where he engaged in business and prospered.

He taught his son to believe that the woman with whom he lived was his mother. Three years ago Calvo died, leaving considerable property.

The lawful Mrs. Calvo was induced some time ago to mail letters to various parts of the United States making inquiries about her son and husband. In some way the son came into possession of one of these letters, and as something had occurred since his father's death to arouse his suspicions, he took the letter to an attorney, who advised him to write to the woman in Georgia.

He did so and told his supposed mother of his action. The woman protested that he was crazy and that she was his mother.

In a short time young Calvo received a reply which contained unmistakable evidence that his own mother lived in Atlanta. The letter was shown to the pretended mother, and she admitted that she was not his real mother, but said his mother was dead, and that the letter from the Georgia woman was a trap to catch the boy to hold him to account for something his father had done in Atlanta.

The young man did not believe this, ant at once started for Atlanta, where he found awaiting him the true mother, whom his filial instinct recognized at sight.

A Workhouse Prisoner Taken to Adrian for an Old Crime.

A man named Charles Sheldon, who was serving a term in the Toledo workhouse for petit larceny, was yesterday taken to Adrian, Mich., by Sheriff Baldwin, of that place. Since that time he has served two terms in penitentiary for other crimes, and will now get another. He is a professional crook, and numerous charges are hanging over him here and at other places.

TRADE WITH MEXICO.

Little Chance That It Will be More Free.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Herald's Washington dispatch this morning says the reciprocity arrangement with Mexico has not been completed, as announced in some quarters, but Minister Ryan has taken back with him to Mexico some suggestions which may result in an agreement of some benefit to the United States.

Not much can be accomplished within the cast iron limits of the McKinley bill, for Mexico obtained no new privileges by it.

Mexico will probably go through the form of granting some minor concessions, however, rather than have duties imposed upon her hides and coffee.

Chattinger, who resides at 2521 Cherry street, and is employed at the Toledo Knitting Works on Superior street. Her experience given in her own words is as follows:

Miss S. Chattinger, 2521 Cherry St.

"My trouble began with what I supposed was ague, the bones throughout my entire body ached, my flesh seemed tender and sore to the touch, I had a headache nearly every day, I was always dull and drowsy. Then, though it was in the summer time, I would catch cold very easy, my nose would clog up, scales would form on both sides, completely filling the nasal passages. My eyes became weak and watery. The secretions from the head would drop into the throat, irritating it so as to keep me constantly hawking and spitting to keep it clear. In about three months time this condition of affairs had reached the lungs and stomach. I began to have annoying pains through the chest and back, and most peculiar sensations about the heart. For three months I coughed so hard that my throat and stomach were kept continually sore by the strain. I had no appetite and was fast losing flesh and strength, when I was induced to consult Drs. Copeland and Buffett. You can say for me that I cannot too highly recommend these specialists. They had an intelligent understanding of my case from the very start, one by one the symptoms began leaving me until to-day I am a well woman."

Arrangements for the Funeral Can not be Made Until His Wife Is Heard from, Who Sails from England To-Morrow.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20.—Wm. J. Florence, the actor, died at the Continental hotel, this city, at 8:30 o'clock last evening.

Death came as a startling surprise to those in attendance upon the sick man for this reason, that his condition had been considered as improving during the afternoon and early evening.

Only Mr. Florence's sister-in-law, Mrs. Barney Williams, of Brooklyn; his sister, Mrs. Norman Wiard, of Washington, and Dr. Patrick Donnellan were with him when he passed away. He had been apparently getting better, and the physicians had no idea that the end was so near.

Dr. Penacoast, who had charge of the case, had left the hotel about 7 o'clock secure in the idea that his patient was doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. Florence was very weak during the day from exhaustion and in the afternoon was somewhat flighty. Towards evening he slept most of the time, however, and his death came so peacefully that it may be said that he slept away. He made no utterance whatever and the first intimation the watchers had of his death was that he ceased to breathe.

As all of Mr. Florence's male relatives had gone to their homes in New York and Brooklyn, Proprietor Kingsley, of the Continental hotel, took temporary charge of the affairs.

Mrs. Florence will leave England for New York on Saturday. Until she can be heard from no definite funeral arrangements will be made. The general belief is that the dead actor will be interred in Brooklyn, as most of his relatives live there.

Mr. Florence's fatal illness began last Saturday night. He had been complaining during the week but had performed regularly. On Saturday evening after having played his part of Ezekiel Homespun in the Heir at Law with the Jefferson-Florence combination at the Arch street theater, he gave a supper at the Continental hotel in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall.

Soon after the close of the festivities he was taken ill and Dr. Pancoast, who was called in, announced that he was suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia, both lungs being affected.

A message of sympathy sent to Mr. Florence by the Clover club, which held its monthly dinner last night, reached the hotel after he had passed away. It reads: "The Clover club sends to you its greeting of tender and fraternal sympathy, expressing the affectionate and sanguine hope that your recovery and convalescence may be so speedy that your illness, which is to us to-day a present and deep grief, will quickly be to you a vanishing memory."

Mr. Florence was nearly 61 years of age, he having been born at Albany, N. Y., July 26, 1831. His name originally was Conlin, but as he had adopted the stage name of Florence, he legalized his right to the latter by an act of assembly passed by the New York legislature.

Joe Jefferson Overcome.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 20.—"My God! you don't tell me!" was the exclamation which fell from the lips of Joseph Jefferson when informed that his companion and bosom friend Florence was dead. Mr. Jefferson had just retired to his dressing-room from the last act of The Rivals. He seemed at first almost overcome by the sudden announcement, but recovering his composure, continued: "Are you sure it is true?"

The dispatch upon which the information was based purported to convey only a rumor and Mr. Jefferson was informed accordingly, and at once started for the newspaper offices, hoping against hope that the news might be false. He spent the greater part of the remaining hours of the night reading the dispatches relating to his friend as they came from the wire and relating incidents of Mr. Florence's career.

Mr. Jefferson, in speaking of Mr. Florence, among many other incidents, dwelt specially upon his numerous private benefactions. "One fact but little known,' said he, "is that Mr. Florence was the founder of the Order of Mystic Shriners." In religion he was a true Catholic and a member of the Knights of St. Patrick. When bidding me farewell at Philadelphia Mr. Florence said: "Good bye old boy, I'll soon catch up to you." From all reports we surely thought he would do so, and his death is a great shock to us. You may say that our engagement at Detroit will certainly be deferred out of regard to his memory.

3 cups of flour, 1 tablespoonful of butter, ¼ teaspoonful of salt, 2 cups of milk, 4 eggs whites and yolks beaten separately, 1 heaping teaspoonful of Cleveland's baking powder.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together twice, chop in the butter. Stir the beaten yolks into the milk and add the flour, then the frothed whites. Whip high and light and bake in cups in a quick oven.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

KEEPING IT UP.

More Suspicious Characters Taken In by the Police.

The police are keeping up the crusade on the tramps, thieves and thugs that are attempting to make this city their headquarters, and last night another half dozen suspicious characters were run in. Several of the prisoners on hand had been hanging out at the Helping Hand mission and came here because they thought they could get free board and lodging.

Since the police have commenced taking these fellows in they have found that several of them had been stealing, and one of the men arrested last night had a lot of goods on his person that would indicate the robbery of a country store somewhere.

In police court this morning Thomas Brown, the man who stole Mr. Munson's coat from the Y. M. C. A. building, was fined $20 and costs and 30 days.

Louis Goldstein, the man brought back from Port Huron for petit larceny, was fined $15, costs and 20 days

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL HOME.

A Startling Statement Made by the Superintendent.

Need of Legislation to Prevent the Incarceration of Innocent Girls in the Institution by Designing Parents.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—In the twenty-third annual report of the Girls' Industrial home, filed with the governor to-day, Superintendent J. M. Crawford made a startling statement.

He says there is a great need of additional legislation to prevent the incarceration of innocent young girls in the home by mercenary and designing parents and guardians, who wish to benefit themselves by putting their children or wards out of the way.

The financial statement in the report shows that the current expenses, including salaries of the officers, amounted to $37,830.97. The annual cost per capita was $128.58, and the weekly cost per capita $2.47. The appropriations recommended for the ensuing year are $32,000. The average number of inmates during the year was 294.

LOOKING AT THE MACHINES.

General Assembly Delegates Visit the Bee Office.

Among the sights shown our late visiting Knights of Labor none more impressed them than the marvelous work of the Mergenthaler linotype machines, as used in the Bee office.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Powderly and Secretary Hayes were among those who visited the Bee hive, and investigated the mechanism by which the paper is turned out. It is safe to say that very few representatives left the city without availing themselves of the invitation which the Bee extended to all the representatives. Among this morning's visitors were:

Thomas Green, of Pine Bluff, Ark., ex-confederate soldier, who was state secretary-treasurer of the state assembly of Arkansas K. of L.; is also organizer, etc., and at present member S. E. B. Arkansas state assembly.

Dan Fraser Thomson (D. Fra. Tomson) an old knight, is a newspaper man and printer, organizer. He has organized over three hundred local assemblies, mostly in Arkansas; traveled as general lecturer south and southwest—Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas and Maryland; was S. M. W. state assembly of Arkansas; resided at Hot Springs where he organized L. A. 2447, the first L. A. ever organized composed exculsively of colored people. He was formerly editor and publisher Arkansas Industrial Liberator at Little Rock.

A VICTIM OF DRINK.

Sad Fate of a Fireman's Wife in Cincinnati.

She Took to Rum to Drown the Sorrow Caused by Her Husband's Death with the Usual Results.

Cincinnati, Nov. 20.—Another sad picture of the effect of drunkenness was in the police court Thursday morning.

The victim was Kate Buschamp, widow of the unfortunate George Buschamp, who, with poor Jerry Bray, lost his life in the Stroble fire at Elm and Canal two years ago.

After Buschamp's death his wife was put on the pension list of the fire department, and she was in a fair way to live and care for her children.

She was a model wife and mother, but the death of her husband upset her. She began to drink to drown her trouble, and the habit grew on her until she became a confirmed drunkard.

Wednesday afternoon Officer Folger found her helplessly drunk at Chestnut and Central avenue, and took her to Oliver street station house.

She was in the police court Thursday morning clad only in a thin calico wrapper. She was without hat or wrap, and was stiff with cold when the officer arrested her.

Judge Gregg sent her to the workhouse for 30 days and fined her $25 and costs.

FRANK BURT IN HOC.

A Sylvania Farmer Arrested on the Charge of Stealing a Letter.

Yesterday United States Marshal Wade went to Sylvania and arrested Frank Burt, a farmer residing two miles west of that place, on a charge of detaining and keeping a letter and brought him to Toledo.

It appears that a letter containing money was sent from Chicago to a young man who worked for Burt. The letter never reached the young man, but it seems from the evidence secured, that the letter was delivered to Burt.

United States Commissioner Hall will hold a hearing in the case this afternoon.

A MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE.

An Eloquent Tribute to the Science of Medicine.

Colds, Coughs, and Other Dangers of a Changeable Climate Averted by Foresight and Intelligent Action.

GO THOU AND DO LIKEWISE.

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Feb. 16, 1891.

The Peruna Medicine Co.—Sirs: I have used Pe-ru-na in my family, first for my wife in lung trouble. She has been greatly benefited; has passed over the winter, so far, with a great deal less trouble than for years. I have, also, found it of great benefit in two cases of la grippe in my family. I have found great benefit myself in kidney trouble, and think a bottle or two will set me all right.

REV. J. C. RANDALL.

Each of the cases described in this candid testimonial are doubtless the result of catarrh in some phase or variety. In the case of the wife who had a chronic lung trouble it was chronic catarrh of the bronchial tubes and air cells. La grippe is but acute epidemic catarrh, in which he found Pe-ru-na such a prompt relief for two members of his family, while his own case was one of chronic catarrh of the kidneys. This explains why Pe-ru-na was found to be so perfectly adapted to such apparently dissimilar diseases. Catarrh usually begins in the head or throat and is commonly known as "a cold." "Catching cold" is the ordinary phrase for an attack of acute catarrh. It may begin with a slight cough, or hawking or spitting mucous from the throat, or running at the nose, or watery eyes; but these symptoms, in a large per cent. of cases, continue to grow worse, until grave or fatal diseases set in. Of course some cases recover without any treatment, but it is extremely dangerous and foolish to run such risks. If no attention is paid to the acute stage it either sets up diphtheria, pneumonia, consumption, or some other disease, or develops chronic catarrh, or at least leave the mucous surfaces of the head and throat especially liable to another attack at the slightest exposure.

As soon as chronic catarrh has become established the victim is never free from a list of disgusting and troublesome symptoms which are sufficient to make life almost unendurable. If the chronic catarrh is of the humid variety an incessant spitting, hawking and blowing of the nose is kept up, to the great annoyance of patient and others. The thickened membranes of the nose and throat produce snoring, watery eyes and deafness.

Colds, winter coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, and pleurisy are all catarrhal affections, and consequently are quickly curable by Pe-ru-na. Each bottle of Pe-ru-na is accompanied by full directions for use, and is kept by most druggists. Get your druggist to order it for you if he does not already keep it

In old cases of catarrh, whether of the humid or dry variety, it is only necessary to take Pe-ru-na exactly as directed on the bottle. Any one using Pe-ru-na who does not realize the benefit they ought from its use should write Dr. Hartman, giving a description of the circumstances and he is usually able to discover the reason of the failure and help to a speedy cure. But it is only necessary in the great majority of cases to follow the direction on the bottle and the cure is certain.

For a complete treatise as to the use of Pe-ru-na in the various stages, varieties and complications of catarrh and colds, send at once for a copy of the Family Physician No. 2, sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio.

LEFT UNEMPLOYED.

Men Who Worked on the Pipe Line Come on to the City for Aid.

The suspension of work on the city pipe line has left in the city a large number of unemployed men, who are without money, and those who cannot get work at something else are left without any means of support. This is giving the infirmary department considerable business, and they have already had applications for aid from a number of these former pipe line employes. Some want transportation out of the city and others want to go to the infirmary. A large number of these men came here from other places to work on the pipe line, and now they are left without money, home or friends at the opening of winter, and the infirmary directors are expecting to hear from more of them as soon as they have spent their last wages.

MURPHY SQUARES HIS ACCOUNT.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 20.—It is learned that Owen E. Murphy, who, some 14 years ago, while treasurer of the board of excise commissioners in New York city, misappropriated $50,000 of the board's funds for which act he was forced to leave that city and come to Canada, and who recently returned to the United States in order to escape being placed under arrest along with Larkin, Connolly and McCreevy on a charge of conspiring to defraud the Dominion government, has made his peace with the authorities in New York city by making good the amount of his defalcation.

IN RAILROAD CIRCLES.

Locating Responsibiity for the Commission Muss.

The Hocking Valley Has a New Official—President Callaway and His Career—News Notes in General.

A recent issue of the Station Agent presents some very clear circumstantial evidence against the C., B. & Q., on the charge of furnishing the information which led to a wholesale beheading of Lake Shore agents for receiving commissions contrary to instructions. It seems that among the agents who got the shake down, was D. S. Segner, agent at Hanover, Mich. This is not a coupon station, but Mr. Segner, it appears, secured tickets for a party of hunters of the C., B. & Q. and in due time received his commission for the same. Mr. Segner's head was the first to drop in the basket. He had never sold a coupon ticket or received commission before, as the following correspondence between the editor of the Station Agent and Mr. Segner shows, and fixes almost a prima facie case against the C., B. & Q.:

Cleveland, O., Oct. 21, 1891.

Mr. D. S. Segner, Hanover, Mich.

Dear Sir: It is reported that you have positive information in your possession which would place the responsibility for the betrayal of yourself and other Lake Shore ticket agents upon the C., B. & Q. road. I have details of the case in my possession, but would not like to use them until I hear from you positively. The story is to the effect that the only statement of ticket sales that you sent out was sent to the Q. road, and that hence a betrayal of your confidence can be directly traced to that company. Will you please let me know if this is the case. I wait your speedy reply.

Very truly yours,
R. W. WRIGHT.

Hanover, Mich., Oct. 26, 1891.

R. W. Wright, Cleveland, O.

Dear Sir. Your letter Oct. 21 received. I would say that the only statement I sent was sent to the C., B. & Q., so they must be the people that reported me.

Yours truly,
S. D. SENGER.

Immediately upon receipt of this letter the following telegram was sent:

D. S. Senger, Hanover, Mich.

Were you dismissed for receiving commissions or was it for any other cause? Answer quick.

R. W. WRIGHT.

The following reply was received:

Hanover, Mich., Oct. 28.

I was dismissed for receiving and asking for commissions.

S. D. SENGER.

They Smile Again.

A look of contentment is visible on the countenances of all local freight officials in the city, especially the Wheeling officials, now that the strike is over and operation restored.

While the strike was trivial as to territory and number of men involved, it was located at such a point as to give the strikers a big advantage for the reason that hostilities could be maintained with an exceedingly small loss.

The Wheeling controls the Belt, and the strike though really confined to the Wheeling yards, effected every line in the city depending on the Belt for local delivery.

General Superintendent Woodford is a business man as well as a thorough and proficient railroad man, and much credit is due him for the speedy and amicable settlement of pending difficulties.

A full force of men are at work, and in a day or two every vestage of the blockade caused by the strike will be removed, and freight will be moving in and out as of old.

S. R. Callaway.

President Callaway entered railroad service in the auditor's department of the Grand Trunk in 1863, where he remained until 1869, passing through the various promotions awarded by the company in recognition of faithful service, and at the close of 1869 he was treasurer of the department.

From 1869 to 1871 he was chief clerk to the superintendent of the Great Western railway. From 1871 to 1874 private secretary to the general manager of the same road. From 1874 to 1878 general superintendent of the Detroit, Saginaw & Bay City road. From 1881 to 1884 general manager of the Chicago & Grand Trunk railway and president of the Chicago & Western Indiana and Belt Line railway companies. September 1 to June 30, 1887, second vice-president and general manager of the Union Pacific railroad, and since September, 1887, president of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad.

TOLEDOANS ABROAD.

Postmaster Brown's Mission to Washington Successful.

D. B. Smith at the National Transportation Convention—W. M. Bellman Returns from Another Meeting.

Postmaster James M. Brown returned yesterday from Washington, where he went in the interests of the Toledo postoffice. Mr. Brown's mission will result in the establishment of an electric plant in the federal building here, and probably a recently patented stamping machine for the Toledo postoffice. Speaking of the latter to a Bee this morning Mr. Brown said:

"It is a remarkable device and has been successfully tested at Philadelphia, Boston and Washington. It stamps about 30,000 letters an hour, and changes the date through the medium of a clock-like arrangement automatically every minute. So not only will the day and hour appear on the letter, but the exact minute at which it is received. The government has given an order for 100 machines to be delivered March 1, and I think I am safe in saying Toledo will have one of the machines thus secured."

"What about an electric plant for the federal building?"

"That I think we have secured. The government electrical engineer will come to Toledo soon and will arrange for the erection of the plant."

International Fair Association.

Mr. W. M. Bellman returned yesterday from Chicago, where he was in attendance at the ninth annual convention of the International Fair and Exposition officials' association. A resolution favoring the closing of the world's fair on Sundays was, after a heated discussion, voted upon favorably. An interesting paper was read by C. C. Stevenson of Montreal on "Exhibitions from an Educational Standpoint."

the election of officers resulted as follows: President. Hon. R. W. Purans, ex-governor of Nebraska; secretary and treasurer, H. J. Hill, Canada; executive committee, T. A. Browne, Ontario; G. W. Sadler, Quebec; Geo. M. Savage, Michigan; J. I. Pierce, Chicago; R. T Newton, Wisconsin; R. B. Crane, Ohio.

"The Associated Press is mistaken," said Mr. Bellman to a Bee, "in stating, as it does in the Commercial this morning, that the resolution to open the world's fair on Sundays was voted down. It was the reverse. The association did not think it was any of their business, but the resolution came up and that we voted upon it favorably, although all the Canadian delegates were radically opposed to it."

The delegates were hospitably entertained by the world's fair commission and the proprietor of the Sherman house."

National Transportation Association.

Yesterday afternoon D. B. Smith, secretary of the Produce Exchange, returned from the annual convention of the National Transportation association which was held in Chicago the past week.

"We did nothing that could be given out for publication," said Mr. Smith in reply to a Bee's query.

"Was there anything in which Toledo was directly interested?"

"Yes, there was, but inasmuch as we were not successful in gaining our point, it is perhaps as well to say nothing about it. I will tell you, however, but not for publication."

It is probable the matter will finally result all right for Toledo.

Griffin is willing to wager that old hat that he will win.

There seems to be considerable contrariety of courtesy in the distribution of the city natural gas.

City Solicitor Read expounds the law like a supreme judge. Nothing too weighty for this court to tackle.

While drilling his companies for Foraker, General Squire is also lassooing many votes for his friend Griffin.

Private Dalzell says Col. Brice was legally elected. This is the time when the Private tells the homespun truth, all wool and a yard wide.

The McKinley law decreed big crops for the farmer, and Tammany has allowed the rains to fall in New York. These things be true if one believes all one reads.

It requires a deal of finesse on the part of Pennsylvania republicans to compel election returns in that state to mean vindication for Quay and condemnation for Bradley.

The man who smiles and keeps his temper through the hottest controversy is the man who wins. Dr. Briggs is so amiable in his defiance his opponents succumb, even when they are mad enough to bite him.

Denver is alive with the first national mining congress. A magnificent parade in which were tableaux on floats, and lines and lines of miners was the opening event. They are lively fellows "out west there" and lots of voters among them.

Some republicans in Representative Flickinger's old home, Defiance, offer to bet big money that Flick will vote for Foraker. They would better husband their resources. Mr. Flickinger is a steadfast advocate of the election of John Sherman.

Eight cities want the national republican convention, which will be located next week. Our sister city, Detroit, is making an effort to secure the convention, and has hopes of success. Toledoans will join in the hope. The City of the Straits is a good convention town.

Europe is in a state of profound peace; the powers all say so. Russia has ordered 40,000 soldiers to the Polish frontier and Austria sends men and officers to the border; England is putting her war ships in prime condition and Germany has issued an order for a large number of portable tents. If this doesn't mean profound peace what then does it mean?

The contest for the Defiance judgeship is in progress, and the state senate will be asked to chalk the republican for the salary. That is what the contest means. A republican candidate will hardly be kicked out by a republican senate, even if the other fellow had a preponderance of votes at the election. The jury is drawn to convict.

One of the strong arguments made by the Bee in urging the construction of the city pipe line was the application of the water works law which provides that all public institutions owned by the city are entitled to free water. This includes the city buildings, the schools, the hospitals, the charity homes, etc. The citizen who called the attention of the Bee to this law was Trustee Jones. He urged it as a saving to taxpayers and said free gas to the various public places would be furnished. Now when the line is completed to a number of public institutions, conditions appear to be changed and Trustee Jones moves in board meeting that the water works be disconnected from the city line next Monday. If the water works law does 'apply, and it does by special enactment, the gas trustees have no power to decline to furnish gas. The only thing they can do is to ask Brother Griffin to have the law repealed. This is a condition and not a theory. It may be an unfortunate condition but it is law, and this is a law-abiding city. Even our worthy trustees are law-abiding, every one of them.

There are some ministers in the United States who are likely to change their politics, all because of the double-spring, back-action qualities of the McKinley law. You remember the ministers flocked across the water this season to attend the world's Evangelical Congress in London. They picked up a few of the works of the old masters and some of the new masters. They also delivered some addresses. We were proud of them, don't you know. But they struck a pathway of thorns in the McKinley-ruled customs house. Their pictures cost them two prices before they were allowed to carry them to their respective parlors and libraries, and now the innocent little pamphlets that inclose their eloquent sentences and periods, which are distributed in London free, cost their authors from a half dollar on up to $1.50, according to number ordered. For a small religious book, presented to Canon Knowles of Chicago, he had to pay 25 cents for the privilege of having it for his very own. The Chicago Times, relating the experiences of the good reverends of that city who stepped on the thorns, says it knows of two of the most prominent of the number who are quite willing to be called democrats, if that means they are "agin'" the McKinley law.

The decision of Judge Morse of the Michigan supreme bench in the matter of the indeterminate sentence law was more radical than at first reported. The parole system is swept away with the decision, and this feature which has served an excellent purpose at the boys and girls industrial homes is a thing of the past. Usually the court in passing upon the constitutionality of law confines itself to the text, and construction is upon the lines of the organic law alone, but in this Michigan case the court went outside of the usual course and declared the indeterminate sentence "to be wrong in theory and dangerous in practice." What kind of a judge is this whose proudest distinction should be to "temper justice with mercy," yet who says the parole system is wrong in theory? Ask the hundreds of bright boys and girls, now grown, who were paroled, from the Michigan institutions, for excellent habits and promise of good citizenship, if the system is wrong in theory or dangerous in practice. A bad board of trustees might make it dangerous, but other causes than the parole system are responsible for the danger. Remove the offices of such institutions from the baleful influences of politics and men will be in authority who will convert the danger into blessings. When the Michigan court declared the parole and indeterminate law wrong in theory the state took a long step backward.

THE ROARING FARCE.

"The King of France went up the hill,
With twenty thousand men;"—

He was a blundering fellow, and made a great flourish of intentions.

But with all his bravado, and swashbuckling sort of a campaign he did not make so great a fool of himself as the republicans of Ohio are now doing about Col. Brice's seat in the United States Senate. Perhaps we should not say "the republicans of Ohio" for we are bound to admit that Sherman, Foster, Bickham and Mack, and other solid and foremost leaders represent a great following of conservative and honest republicans. They do not take any stock in the nonsensical talk about ousting Brice. It is the Jack-the-Ripper sort of leaders, with the whoop-'er-up howlers that are making the noise and having a deal of a time with the question. And this reminds one of the rest of the story about the royal windbeater of France—

"The King of France came down the hill,
And ne'er went up again."

In other, and more modern, words he "went up like a rocket and came down like a stick." So with these Ohio republicans who are wasting time snapping at Brice's heels. The republican state committee is to prefer charges and make a great noise and ask the Senate to Mexicanize Ohio to help that man Foraker to a job in Washington—that man who was twice defeated for governor of Ohio. The senate will kick the petition and the petitioners out of court, as it should, and Col. Brice and John Sherman will ably represent Ohio in the Senate of the United States. It is a roaring farce the fools have put on the boards and the actors do not have to "make up" to appear real before the people of Ohio and the country. Give the crank another turn.

WARNED IN A DREAM.

There are some very facetious fellows in the profession of burglary, like the Elwood, who did some Toledo residences, a few years ago; cracking jokes with the proprietor of the residence while he gathered in the family plate and jewels, with the persuasive revolver kept well in hand. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Beecher's successor in Plymouth church, and his son Lawrence, editor of the Christian Advocate, live at Newburg in the summer at the family homestead of the son's wife—the Lawson Valentine place. In the winter the wife's mother goes into the city, with her son and his family, leaving the homestead in Newburg in order for the next summer season and well secured against gentlemen with dark lanterns, duplicate keys, and other fine tools. Valuables of both the Valentine and Abbott families were kept in the Newburg residence. Sunday evening last Mrs. Valentine had a dream which so impressed her that, as she expressed it, "all was not well at the house," she would not be laughed or argued out of her determination to go at once and see about it. A dispatch came very soon after her arrival, saying the house was stripped of everything but the heavy furniture. A library of choice books valued at two thousand dollars went with the rest. The burglar dressed himself in Dr. Abbott's clothes and went about the premises at his leisure, leaving his old duds in their place. They moved their plunder in a wagon in broad daylight, as the family would have done if they had concluded to move their effects to their Brooklyn home.

The strangest part of the story is the impressiveness of the dream that came to Mrs. Valentine and the verification of her belief that something was wrong. The study of the occult mysteries of the human mind in sleeping as well as in waking hours, is yet in the primary pages. Are wonderful developments awaiting the babes in the cradles, or is it, thus far human investigation and knowledge may go, when it strikes a blank and solid wall on which is written "no farther?"

Poor old New York seems quite helpless so far as public spirit is concerned; she has none, with money behind it. Chicago buys a valuable old library in Berlin and ships it right by her door. Now the Verestchagin collection of paintings is broken up and scattered by the auctioneer. The city couldn't raise money enough to buy it for the Art Museum, though one exceptional man did offer to contribute $10,000, if the remainder were forthcoming. The effort to remove Grant's body to Arlington and build a monument will be revived again shortly—is already revived, in the newspapers. The world's fair went by default, for like reasons. And so do the woes multiply. The erstwhile metropolis seems to have left only Tammany, Chauncey Depew and Col. Shepard by way of distinguishment.

After all the exciting times our state department and the rest of the folks have had, the maps we have printed and the dispatches we have cap-sheaved with war's wild alarms, Chili isn't thirsting for our heart's blood at all, and Brazil is as peaceable as a summer day, everywhere but in English cablegrams and correspondence. Well, the administration and Col. Elliot Shepard have had a great season of enjoyment anyhow.

The farmers' congress in Indianapolis, the Episcopalian convention in Washington and the W. C. T. U. international meeting in Boston, make a tolerably fair convention week for the country.

Perhaps He Will.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRIES.

Regular Meeting of the Central Labor Union—Delegates Admitted—Other Business.

The Central Labor Union held a lengthy and interesting meeting last evening. It was decided to ask Toledo breweries to employ none but union labor—this in return for the C. L. U.'s endorsement of home made beer as against the Milwaukee article.

Delegates were reported from Typographical Union, No. 63, as follows: Thomas Rooney, F. H. Kininger, R. F. Booth, William Curran, H. Talbot and H. Frederick.

Another organization of a wood workers' machine hand union was reported from Auburndale.

The committee on investigation of the alleged boycott on the Western Union reported progress and asked for further time, which was granted.

An invitation to send delegates to the annual meeting of the Ohio State Trades and Labor Assembly at Columbus, on Jan. 5, was read and accepted.

It was announced that an open public meeting would be held under the auspices of the Machine Hands' Wood Working Union, at Carpenters' hall, Friday evening, Nov. 27, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

SHOT BY A MINISTER.

Abingdon, Va., Nov. 20.—R. S. Bingham, a Methodist minister who lives near Emory and Henry college, surrendered himself here yesterday, saying he had shot Frank Queensberry during a quarrel. He claims that the shooting was done in self-defense and after Queensberry had assaulted him. The injured man, it is said, will die.

FREE NATURAL GAS

Must Be Supplied to Public Institutions.

The Amended Law of 1889 Makes it Compulsory—The Gas Trustees Have No Option in the Matter.

The Toledo natural gas law was passed January 22, 1889. Its provisions are familiar to everybody. On February 27, the same year, a law was enacted making the general law on the subject of water works applicable to the construction of natural gas plants by municipalities, and to the supply of gas by such towns and cities. The law so passed reads as follows:

Sec. 2491 a. That where any municipality has been or shall be authorized to purchase, construct or establish any natural gas works for supplying fuel, for public and private use and consumption, the provisions of chapter 1, of division 8, of title 12, of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, respecting the general powers of such city or village as to taking lands, rights and easements for such purposes as to election of trustees, as to the compensation and duties of such trustees; their powers to make by-laws and regulations; their duties to make reports to the council, and to deposit moneys collected and the disposition of vouchers therefor; the mode of keeping and disbursing funds arising from rents; their authority to make contracts, and have general supervision and control of such works; the authority of the council of any city or village to investigate all matters pertaining to the management of such works, and the removal of any officer thereof; THE FURNISHING OF FREE FUEL TO PUBLIC AND CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS WITHIN SUCH MUNICIPALITY; the protection of pipes (and) attachments, the rules as to letting contracts and requiring bonds as to the performance thereof; the mode of laying pipes in streets and highways, so far as the provisions of such statute are applicable, shall govern all such municipalities, their officers and agents in all cases not otherwise provided for by statute.

Now, the language of the above law is very plain and explicit, and cannot be misconstrued. The section of the original water works law which refers to free supply reads as follows:

"Section 2417. No charge shall be made by the trustees or board for supplying water (gas) * * * for fire department purposes, or for the use of public school buildings, or for the use of any public building belonging to the corporation, or for any hospital, asylum, or other charitable institution devoted to the relief of the poor, the aged, infirm or destitute persons, or orphan children."

The water works board in this city now supplies free water to all the public schools, including the manual training school, to the engine houses, to the police station, to the Protestant hospital, to St. Vincent's hospital, to the Old Ladies' Home, to the Orphans' Home, to the Retreat Mission, to the Memorial building, and the Public Library.

The law specially provides that all of these institutions shall have free natural gas. There can be no evasion of this law without violating the law. When there is gas to be supplied to any person or persons, the public places are first to be furnished. If this provision is a hardship, then the law can be repealed, but before so doing, the right of taxpayers must be considered. Not more than one-third of the taxpayers of Toledo can now be supplied with city gas for domestic use, yet the other two-thirds must bear their burden of taxation to pay for the city plant. The great argument in favor of the free gas urged three years ago, was that if the schools were supplied free every taxpayer in Toledo would be proportionately benefited. So, likewise, with the public institutions. At the time the law was passed this was claimed to be a strong point, and every friend of the city pipe line rejoiced.

It may be almost impossible to comply with the law now because of the shortage of the supply, but that does not relieve the trustees from performing their bounden duty to furnish the free gas while the supply does last.

It may be well for the trustees, the council and the public to consider this whole gas question from the standpoint of present intelligence and knowledge. The supply is short at the wells. The pressure is low. The funds are lower. The condition in the field is practically the same as in other fields investigated by Mr. Beatty. The truths contained in those letters are beginning to dawn with force upon this community. It is always better to face the truth, even if it be unpleasant. The gas question is no exception and the subject should be approached without temper and considered fairly and earnestly and honestly. The trustees are doing the very best they can under the circumstances, and we all hope the circumstances will greatly improve before long.

IN GARFIELD'S MEMORY.

The Annual Celebration at Ravenna Yesterday.

Ravenna, O., Nov. 20.—Yesterday was one which is always held sacred by the members of the Garfield club of the Nineteenth district of Ohio.

It was the anniversary of the birth of their great leader and the day on which they hold their annual meeting to do honor to him and the principles which he represented.

Ever since the year 1887, the republicans of Ashtabula, Lake, Geauga, Mahoning, Trumbull and Portage counties have met in honor of the illustrious statesman who was so long their representative in Congress, and who afterwards filled the highest office in the gift of the people.

A business meeting was held in the court house with President John C. Beatty in the chair. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved, and Youngstown selected as the next place of meeting.

The following officers were elected: Hon. J. B. Burrows, of Painesville, president; vice presidents, Ashtabula county, E. L. Lampson; Geauga county, H. J. Smith; Trumbull county, Hiram Austin; Lake county, W. S. Ackley; Mahoning county, Tod Ford; Portage county, F. M. Rumbaugh; recording secretary, J. J. Sullivan, of Warren; corresponding secretary, George L. Fordyce, of Youngstown; treasurer, O. L. Collier, of Youngstown.

The members then adjourned to the rink where the banquet was held.

WILL ENFORCE THEIR RIGHTS.

Water Works Trustee L. K. Parks Talks With a Bee on the Gas Muddle.

"No, I don't think we would be justified in relinquishing our rights," said L. K. Parks, member of the water works board of trustees to a Bee this morning. "The gas trustees have not used us right, and I for one will not be a party to violating any law."

"Are you willing to make a compromise?"

"I am willing to go as far as possible, but I really cannot see what we can do."

"Can you propose any way out of the hole?"

"Well, I would be willing to lay in a supply of coal and agree to shut off the gas during a very severe cold spell or in some other emergency. I am pretty tired of the whole thing, but I will resign sooner than violate an established law."

The gas trustees seem to be between the devil and the deep sea. They will be damned if they do and they will be damned if they don't.

YODER IS ON DECK.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Ex-Congressman Yoder, of Ohio, is here working as though he did not intend to let the position of sergeant-at-arms of the house get away from him. In fact, there does not seem to be any opposition to him. He began his hunt before the adjournment of the last congress and appears to illustrate the proverb about the "early bird."

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That hunters report a good supply of quail in the marshes.

That the real estate dealers are enjoying their vacation just now.

That the Dairymaids' festival to-night will prove highly entertaining.

That Toledo fishermen lost considerable twine in the blows of this week.

That all the dancing halls in the city have been secured for Thanksgiving eve.

That Master and Man has done an immense business at the People's this week.

That it would be a good scheme to run trailers on the electric cars morning and evening.

That the next entertainment of local importance is that to be given by the Ys early in December.

That George Fields will not be thought of for penitentiary manager if Col. Smead concludes to do a little hustling.

That the legislative caucus convenes on Saturday, January 5, at which time Mr. Griffin's goose is liable to be cooked.

That the O. Y. C. entertainment committee will surprise the natives during the season with the novelties on the tapis.

That the opinion prevails that Representative Griffin, in his candidacy for speaker, is only playing for the choice of committees.

That the senatorial fun will continue until the caucus is held, which, it seems to be agreed, will be held on Saturday, January 10.

That there is complaint about the gas supply from all the towns adjoining Toledo, so that our residents are not alone in their wail.

That the street car companies might make a 3-cent rate to High school pupils, and gain the "well-done" from several hundred parents.

That much credit is due Mr. Dan O'Hara for the efficient manner in which he disposes of the garbage. His contract has been well kept.

That three car loads of celery arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Kalamazoo, Mich. Food for the nerves seems to be in demand.

That the idea prevailing that the Australian ballot is only to be utilized in the November elections is erroneous. It involves the April bout too.

That Congressman Haynes is credited in the Crisp column for speaker, and is also a warm friend of Judge Yoder for sergeant-at-arms of the house.

That the friends of Mr. Lawrence Buckhardt, of the Ninth ward, insist he shall make the race for street commissioner next spring against Mr. Bower.

That the veterans comprising the membership of Forsyth post will have a gay time at the silver anniversary to-night, and the public is invited to enjoy it with them.

That Councilman Morganthaler and Alderman Morgan, from the Fourth and Ninth wards, according to the vote cast at the recent election, have a dead cinch on retiring from public life.

That steps should be taken to have Toledo's various industries represented in good shape at the world's fair. Commissioner Harvey Platt will see that the necessary room is provided.

That Alderman Potter has announced to his friends that one term of two years in the municipal legislature is glory enough for him, and that he will not be a candidate for re-election next spring.

That the point raised by City Solicitor Read in regard to the functions of the gas trustees is one that will bear close examination. Should it be good law, it opens up a wide field for conjecture as to the legislation, bonds, etc.

That the returns from Lucas county were not sent to Columbus sooner because a good advertisement for the county might be obtained. Some papers were uncharitable enough to advance this idea, and comment to our discredit on it. They were only a little bit jealous.

That Doc Smith has the indorsement of Griffin, Flickinger and Heller for deputy oil inspector; and that Chas. Hull, of the Ninth ward, has secured the approval of the county committee for the same berth. Louis Nunn laughs at both candidates.

STANDS IN WITH THE BANKS

How Wells Wins Fortunes at Monte Carlo.

He is a "Capper" and the Suckers Fall Over Each Other in a Scramble to Part with Their Cash.

London, Nov. 20.—A dispatch from Monte Carlo says there is a growing belief that the Englishman Wells, who has had another great run of luck at the bank this month, has an understanding with the bank which permits him to win.

The stories of big winnings by Wells and a few others are useful to the Monte Carlo people in drawing visitors who hope to have equal good fortune.

After the story of Wells' big winnings last July there was a rush to Monte Carlo from all parts of the continent and the bank profited far more than the sum of Wells' winnings.

CONCERNING PEOPLE.

"Blind Tom," who for years delighted the public with his performances, is passing his closing days in an asylum for mental treatment.

Louis Cyr, the strongest man in the world, astonished a London audience a few nights since by lifting 2,619 pounds with the aid of certain harness.

Prof. Blackie, now 82 years old, gives lectures in England on Scotch songs, with specimens of Scottish minstrelsy given by accomplished assistants.

Dr. Gatling says his famous gun should be regarded as a philanthropic invention, for it saved no end of lives by scaring riotous people into submission.

Mrs. Logan is an interesting figure, with her black mourning veil and snow-white hair. She has become a good writer, and her literary ventures are prosperous.

In making the widow of William Henry Smith a viscountess the queen follows the British precedent in such cases. Mrs. Canning was made a viscountess on the death of her husband, and Mrs. Disraeli was created Viscountess Beaconsfield before Disraeli took his earldom. Lady Peel was offered a viscounty on the death of Sir Robert, but declined it.

Lord Wolseley tells of a curious relic in the possession of the wife of the American consul at Maderia. It is only a simple paper-knife, but it would be difficult to find anything more interesting than it. On one side is written: "I broke this. D. D. Porter." On the reverse is inscribed: "I mended it. W. T. Sherman." The owner met these two great Americans at Gibraltar and remembers them with great pleasure.

Theodore Tilton resides permanently in Paris. He has prettily appointed chambers upon the Isle of St. Louis, almost under the shadow of Notre Dame, and opposite to his windows, upon the other side of the river, is the old house where Abelard and Heloise are said to have lived and loved. Tilton is an amateur carpenter, and opening from his study is a perfectly equipped shop, in which he passes some hours daily.

John Strange Winter began to write a story called "Justice" before Herbert Spencer's fourth part of the Principles of Ethics appeared with the title of "Justice." The lady thought that she must therefore change the name of her book; but Mr. Spencer, when the situation was described to him, said it would be perfectly satisfactory if the novel were called "Justice—A Story."

Frederick Remington, the artist whose recent magazine picture of Trooper Murphy astride of a horse that "trotted in front and galloped behind" called forth about the only adverse criticism ever made on his sketches of life on the plains, has a host of friends along Newspaper Row in New York. He is a tall, powerfully built man, with bluish gray eyes. Remington was something of an athlete in his college days. He lives at New Rochelle, in a cozy cottage, filled with bric-a-brac.

William Reese, of Bolivar, Pa., is hale and hearty at the age of 103 years. He comes of a long-lived family, for it is reported his grandfather lived to be 106 and his father and sister to 105. To a reporter Mr. Reese recently said he thought he could beat the record of all his ancestors "if only given time." Then he laughed. "And yet I am ready to go," added he. "I feel that I have gotten all out of life there is in it for me. My health is still good, and I have never had anything to complain of on that account. I was always a hard worker and couldn't have lived any other way. I work a little yet."

YELOW FEVER.

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 20.—The steamer Charente is in the harbor and has three cases of yellow fever aboard. The news has caused great alarm. The vessel and her passengers have been quarantined, and every effort is being made to arrest the spread of the disease.

The Gas Trustees Place the Red Flag at Half Mast.

The Crimson Rag of the Water Works Board Still Waves Haughtily Aloft—Shylock Demands His Pound of Flesh—Beware of Shedding Blood.

The interesting and somewhat remarkable muddle in which the boards of gas trustees and the water works are involved seems to grow darker and deeper. The water works board is haughtily aggressive, and, like Shylock of old, demands its pound of flesh.

The situation is simply this: The water works board advanced money to lay a pipe line to the works, and believes it now has privileges and rights that claim priority over the rights of private citizens. While the city solicitor supports this view, it is very evident that public opinion will sustain the gas trustees in standing by the people. The greatest good for the greatest number is an axiom of political economy, and the gas trustees, taking a departure, stand by it. The water works trustees say the people will be more benefited by a good and full supply of water than of fuel, inasmuch as more people use the water. The gas trustees, admitting this apparent fact, say the people will be doubly benefited by receiving water through the medium of coal fuel and receiving an abundant supply of gas for heating purposes. The water works people say they are willing to relinquish their claims for free fuel if the city solicitor can show them how they can legally do so. City Solicitor Read says this can be done simply by not enforcing their rights—by not asking for gas.

The law says the water works board is entitled to free gas. The gas trustees say we have not gas to give unless we cut off the private consumer, and common sense says let the private consumer have the gas and let the water works use coal as heretofore.

City Solicitor Read appeared before the board of gas trustees last evening, not as its legal adviser, but as a peacemaker. "I have endeavored to have the board of water works trustees lower the red flag of hostility," he said, "and I am glad to say that I have been somewhat successful."

The subject was discussed at length in a somewhat humorous strain, Dr. Jones illustrating the peculiar position of the water works board by a piquant little story with a long-tailed moral.

Dr. Jones stated complaints were coming from the Fifth and Ninth wards relative to a shortage in gas. The matter was referred to the manager.

City Solicitor Read said he had attended a meeting of the water works trustees whereat the matter of commencing suit against the board of gas trustees has been discussed. He had a long conference with the water works board, and finally he was authorized to say that if the gas trustees rescinded its resolution cutting off the gas the board of water works trustees would lay in a supply of coal and relinquish its rights to free gas. The city was endangered by two departments entering into litigation. It may hurt the city in many ways. He was overstepping his province as the board's legal adviser, but he came as a friend of both and to settle the difficulty amicably. He asked in the interests of the city that the resolution be rescinded.

Mr. Parsons asked why it would not be time enough to rescind the resolution after the difficulty had been settled.

Mr. Read said the water works people, if they brought suit, required some time to prepare papers, etc., whereas the resolution would go into effect in two days. He warned the city against entering into litigation in its own household. The water works board would hold a meeting to-morrow evening and would be pleased to enter into consultation with the board.

Mr. Greene said no harm could come from rescinding the resolution. Litigation was to be shunned at all hazards.

Dr. Jones agreed with Mr. Greene. A board, like a corporation, had no soul, and therefore no feeling. The innuendoes hurled at the head of President Parsons should be forgotten, and if possible forgiven.

Mr. Parsons said if the matter could be straightened out he was willing to allow the board of water works trustees to maintain its dignity, which it seemed so anxious to do. He moved that the action contemplated by the aforesaid resolution be suspended until a conference can be held with the water works board.

Mr. Backus thought the proper way to effect a compromise was to rescind the resolution, and he moved as a substitute that it be rescinded.

The substitute was not seconded and the original motion carried.

Mr. Frank Monroe appeared on behalf of the B. F. Wade & Co. Gas had been turned off from them without notice, and he desired an explanation. Unless they have gas in the morning they will sustain a heavy loss.

Dr. Jones moved that the order to shut off the gas be suspended until arrangements can be made to get other fuel. The motion prevailed, although Mr. Backus protested against discrimination.

The secretary reported that $188 had been refunded to parties who had advanced the money on lines that had not been constructed.

The United Storage and Truck company was ordered paid $1,200 for hauling pipe, etc.

Manager Heston recommended that no further contracts to furnish gas be made, except where lines are already laid. Referred.

Parks, Foster & Co. offered a supply of gas tools cheap. Rejected.

Kerlin Bros. offered to give certain pipe in return for pipe received from the city. Referred.

The matter of purchasing the Sole-leather gas well was referred to the committee on territory.

Arrangements are being made whereby the boards of water works and gas trustees may come together this evening for further consultation.

They Have Agreed to Fight in England.

A Purse of Ten Thousand Dollars Up and the Two Pugilists to Pound Each Other for It.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Peter Jackson, the well-known colored pugilist, received a cablegram from London yesterday announcing that the National club of that city had agreed to allow him $750 for expenses if he would come to London and fight Frank Slavin for a purse of $10,000 which they offered.

Slavin has agreed to the match, and as Jackson's terms have all been agreed to, he has practically done so. Articles of agreement will be forwarded at once. The fight will be in June.

STREETS AND SIDEWALKS

Discussed by Council Committees—Not Much Business.

The only council committees called to meet last night were those on streets and sidewalks, and these had but little business.

The street committee approved resolutions to pave Scottwood avenue from Bancroft to Virginia street, and to pave Virginia street from Collingwood avenue to Maplewood.

A communication was presented from the property owners on Walnut street stating that they desire to do the grading of the street at once. The resolution that had previously passed provided for grading the street from Frederick to Delaware. It was decided to repeal this, and the engineer was instructed to draw up a resolution to grade the street from Frederick to Moore.

The contract for paving Lafayette street with firebrick from Fifteenth to Division was awarded to C. W. McKinney for $8,071.10.

An ordinance to turnpike Oak street in Ironville from the River road to Tiffin street, which had been referred back to the committee was reapproved.

An ordinance to turnpike Bay street in Ironville from the River road to Tiffin street was laid over for two weeks in order to let the property owners decide what they want, as at present there is a disagreement.

A communication was read from the city solicitor in regard to the grading of Beacon street from Cherry to Union. Mr. Read did not consider that proper petition had been made for the improvement, and the engineer was instructed to draw up an ordinance repealing the legislation already passed.

* * *

The Oliver street sidewalk again rose before the sidewalk committee, and another windy debate was held over the location of this walk. Mr. Gill thought that the committee had spent enough time on this and moved that the matter be laid on the table, but his motion did not prevail.

It was finally decided that the walk should go in the center of the sidewalk bed except on the block between Newton and Knapp streets, here the trees will be saved.

A number of resolutions for new walks were approved.

HO FOR THE DESERT!

Oh, ho for the wild, woolly West!
Ye tender, come forth and invest;
Come fly up the flume
In the real estate boom
Among the financially blest!

Oh, ho for this woolly, wild land
Of the lava-beds, desert, and sand,
Where the ox lies stark,
And the coyotes bark,
And the horse is too small for his brand!

The brakeman rules over the train,
The sage-bush is lord of the plain,
The prairie-dog kneels
On the back of his heels.
Still patiently praying for rain.

So balmy and mild is the air
That the redskin needs only to wear
A cool tomahawk,
And a handy scalp-lock,
With a feather or two in his hair.

Then ho for the desert so blest.
In the heart of the woolly, wild West,
Where all things consume
With perennial boom—
Ye tender, come forth and invest!

TAMMANY IS FOR CRISP.

Big Chiefs to Enter the Fight in Earnest.

Remarkable Evidence of Political Discipline.

Turner, the Ex-Congressman, Ex-Ice Wagon Driver, Ex-Stump Speaker, Will Be Boomed for Doorkeeper of the House.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Tammany Hall is now a factor in the speakership fight. The situation, previously complicated, thus becomes more and more involved.

The first intimation that Tammany was seeking to influence the distribution of the offices by the next House of Representatives was made public in the statement that the organization had decided to indorse ex-Representative Charles H. Turner, of New York city, for the position of doorkeeper.

Turner's somewhat meteoric course in politics is well known. He is a young man, only thirty years of age, and has been a college student on one hand, and an "L" brakeman and a driver of an ice-wagon on the other.

He was elected to congress to succeed Representative Fitzgerald, who resigned, and left his seat on the ice-wagon to take the stump. He received a large majority of the votes in his district, and might have been re-elected if Tammany had not decided that the nomination should go to John R. Fellows.

Three days before the nomination convention was held Turner was told that he must be present, decline to be a candidate, and nominate Fellows as his successor. He obeyed orders and after congress had adjourned he resumed his seat upon the ice-wagon. He had only saved enough out of his $10,000 salary to buy a wagon and two horses.

While Turner was selling ice during the summer months, Thomas F. Coakley, a Tammany democrat, who has for some years been an assistant doorkeeper at the house of representatives, began a campaign as a candidate for the doorkeepership. Apparently his cause prospered. He was popular and had many earnest supporters.

Last Friday, however, Richard F. Croker, the Tammany leader, summoned Coakley to his office. "You will make a losing fight," he said, "and we have determined to indorse Turner."

"All right," said Coakley, "if that is the program I'll abide by it."

And so Coakley has come back to Washington with all his doorkeeper ambitions shattered, but shouting for Tammany, Croker, Turner and victory. It is a remarkable instance of the discipline in a great organization.

But, it is naturally asked, why was Turner indorsed?

The answer is brief.

Tammany promised him, when he stepped aside in favor of Col. Fellows and when he worked day and night for his successor, that he should not be forgotten. It was intended to nominate him for Gen. Spinola's seat in congress, but this was impracticable. He was disappointed also about a $2,000 place in the city hall.

Nevertheless, during the last campaign he entered heartily into the canvass and stumped the country districts. Although he was silent enough in congress it is said that he can make a vigorous and effective speech.

When, therefore, Tammany cast around for a candidate to slip into the vacancy which Coakley's forced withdrawal created, Turner's name was suggested and he was promptly indorsed.

Then he was summoned to the presence of Mr. Croker and told of the program that had been arranged for him. He said that he had no funds.

"Will $500 pay your hotel bills for a couple of weeks?" asked Croker.

Turner thought it would.

So Mr. Croker wrote out a check for that amount, and Turner will reach Washington to-day with $500 of Tammany's money in his pocket, prepared to begin his campaign.

But this is not all the story.

It seems to be pretty well understood that Tammany has not confined itself to the doorkeepership, but has made known its preference for Crisp for speaker. Judge Crisp, who was in this city yesterday, hurried over to New York last night presumably to hold a consultation with the leaders there. His position in the matter is not known. Many of his friends believe that the active support of Tammany will be to him a source of weakness rather than of strength, while others argue that it insures his election. It is understood that it is now the intention of Messrs. Croker, Martin, and other Tammany leaders to come down to Washington and participate in the fight. Just how their work will offset the criticism which is likely to be made by members who object to the domination of Tammany remains to be seen. On the other hand, of course Tammany will claim that if it is to be depended upon swing New York into the democratic column in 1892 it has the right to participate in an election upon which depends in a very large degree the success of the party in the presidential campaign.

According to the present arrangement the New York delegation will vote as a unit. Tammany will see to it that the New York representatives are in line, while Gov.-elect Flower will look after those who come from other sections of the state. Against this participation by Tammany in the approaching contest, one congressman, Bourke Cochran, has stood firm. He believes that it will not add to the laurel decorations of the wigwam. It would seem, also, as if Mr. Fitch, who has openly declared for Mills, would decline to vote for Crisp even at Tammany's direction. He is now, however, a very sick man, and his absence from the caucus on this account is probable.

The twenty-three democratic votes of New York are as big as a barn door at this juncture, and that they will be dispensed as Tammany dictates seems now to be a foregone conclusion.

RUSSIA AND FRANCE.

Paris, Nov. 20.—In diplomatic and cabinet circles here active preparations are still being made for the approaching visit of M. De Giers, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, who is expected here today. A suite of rooms has been prepared for the czar's representative at the Russian embassy, and there is no doubt that M. De Giers will be much feted and petted.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

PAINLESS--EFFECTUAL.

Human health can only be maintained when the rules of life are strictly obeyed. Man's system is like a town; to be healthy it must be well drained. This drainage is frequently interfered with by careless habits, and when it becomes clogged, illness is the result.

Beecham's Pills have been in popular use in Europe for fifty years and are specially adapted in a safe, gentle manner, to keep human drainage in perfect order.—American Analyst.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Seven Persons Indicted for Violating the Law.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—The federal grand jury presented indictments against seven persons this afternoon as a result of its investigations of the alleged violations of the interstate commerce law. Out of the seven only one is a railroad man, the others being business men. The indicted are: Gustavus F. Swift, Edwin C. Swift and Louis F. Swift, of the firm of Swift & Co., the big beef packers, and D. Edwin Harpnell, an employe of the firm, all for obtaining illegal rates; George and John Firmenich, glucose manufacturers of Marshalltown, Iowa, for the same offense, and George B. Spriggs, general freight agent of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, for giving rates less than the established tariff.

Mr. Spriggs is alleged to have been concerned in the same transaction for which the Swifts are indicted, and the Firmenich brothers are held for receiving cut rates over the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City railroad.

STRANGE GIRL IN THE EAST

Her Case is Bothering the Police.

They Think She Is an Imposter Who Faints by the Roadside to Gain Sympathy and Money.

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The young woman found lying unconscious on the river bank near this city is believed to be an imposter.

She was closely questioned at the hospital. It was found that she had been in Wheeling, W. Va., and when asked for some names of persons who live there she gave several.

A telegram was sent to Wheeling and it was found that all but one of the names were fictitious. This name was not given correctly but so nearly that the person receiving the message was satisfied that the woman in the hospital here had worked the same scheme in Wheeling under the name of Alice Wilmont.

She doubtless has an accomplice. At Addison a purse of $60 was raised for her a few days ago. When she was picked up near here she had only 16 cents in her pocketbook, which was left lying so that it must necessarily be seen.

The unconsciousness which attacks her comes after much fatigue. A well-known physician said to-day that she can bring it on whenever she wishes. She has "worked" Olean, Hornellsville, Addison, Corning and Elmira within two or three weeks. The fact that her unconsciousness is without doubt genuine causes every one to sympathize with her, and if the trick had not been exposed a purse would undoubtedly have been raised for her here.

She is a handsome girl, about 20 years old, and dresses rather neatly. Chief of Police Little accused her of systematically imposing upon people, but she stoutly denied it.

She has recovered and seems all right excepting the peculiar look in her eyes.

It is supposed by some that her accomplice is a hypnotist.

Remarkable Tale Told in a Western Town.

It Certainly Must Be True for at Last Accounts Mulhattan Was in Jail in the East.

Topeka, Ks., Nov. 20.—The story of a wonderful phenomenon comes from Rossville, a little town 19 miles west of Topeka, on the Union Pacific.

For 19 days, it is said, rain fell incessantly on the orchard belonging to H. Klein, a prominent resident. This orchard is in the town and is bounded on the east by Mr. Klein's residence, on the other three sides by fences.

The rain did not fall outside of Mr. Klein's premises, but for 19 days there was no intermission in the fall and it was only stopped by the present cold snap.

What caused this persistent rain over one orchard when other orchards in the immediate neighborhood were needing rain and not getting it is one of nature's unexplained problems. Several hundred people witnessed the phenomenon and the rainfall is the local sensation at Rossville.

A. C. Shermann, postmaster at Rossville, who was in the city to-day, says the story is true. He did not see it himself, but his wife and daughter did, together with nearly all the people of the village. It is expected that the rain will begin again when the weather gets warmer.

DIFFICULT TO ASCERTAIN.

The Government is Trying Hard to Find Out

Just How Much Tin is Being Made in This Country.

Peculiar Clauses in the Tariff Bill That Time Alone Can Tell Just What They Were Put In For.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The great tin plate controversy as to whether tin plates are being produced or not in the United States, is under investigation by the government. The section of the tariff act imposing the duties on tin plates provided that they and terne plates, lighter in weight than 63 pounds per 100 square feet, shall be admitted free of duty after Oct. 1, 1897, unles it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the president that the production in the United States during either of the six years preceding June 30, 1897, has equaled one-third the amount of such plates imported during any fiscal year after the passage of the act.

This makes it necessary for the government to determine both the exact production of tin plate in the United States and the imports from foreign countries. Mr. Comstock, the intelligent chief of the customs division in the treasury department, recently addressed a letter to Secretary Foster, calling attention to the necessity of official statistics of this subject, and suggesting that, as the work will involve the continuous attention of a competent person, an officer of the department be specially assigned to the duty and instructed to file reports at stated periods in the department.

Special Agent Ayers was designated by Assistant Secretary Spalding, and is now engaged in the work. His headquarters are in New York, but he is making frequent visits to the tin plate factories which are reported to have sprung up in St. Louis, Philadelphia and other places, to learn the volume of their production. The figures of the imports he will be able to obtain from the regular returns made to collectors of customs, but some puzzling questions of interpretation have already been suggested to him.

The section of the tariff relating to the duties on tin plate was very ingeniously framed to accomplish certain purposes, but, unless one understands those purposes in advance, the language is rather blind. One of the provisions is that the amount of tin plates manufactured into articles exported, and upon which a drawback shall be paid, shall not be included in ascertaining the amount of such importations. This is intended to prevent swelling the volume of imports by tin plate which is afterwards exported.

The last proviso is, "That the amount of weight of sheet iron on sheet steel manufactured in the United States, and applied or wrought in the manufacture of articles or wares turned or terne plated in the United States, with weight allowance, as sold to manufacturers or others, shall be considered as turned, and terne plates produced in the United States, within the meaning of this act."

Some question has arisen as to whether the phrase "manufactured in the United State is a phrase limiting sheet iron or sheet steel, or is intended to apply to the manufacture of both domestic and foreign iron and steel into tinned ware.

Senator Aldrich has been consulted and expresses the opinion that the intent of the committee was to permit both foreign and domestic iron and steel in the manufacture of tinned articles as a part of the domestic production of tinned plate. The purpose is to encourage tin plating, even of foreign iron and steel, while no injury is done to producers of American iron and steel, because the foreign remains subject to the regular duties.

If the proviso is not interpreted in this way, it seems to be an entire superfluity, for there is nothing in the other portions of the paragraph to exclude domestic iron and steel from the competition. Assistant Secretary Spaulding has not yet decided what is the correct interpretation, but he will probably instruct Agent Ayres to follow the view of Senator Aldrich.

THE NEW ELECTRIC SYSTEM.

How it is Viewed by Experts in the East.

Edison Has Perfected His Apparatus Which Will Do Away with Trolleys and Dangerous Overhead Wires.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Electrical Engineer prints an article on the recent experiments made by Edison with a view to devising a street railway system which shall be applicable to cities where the trolley system is not permitted, and which shall not cost more than a cable road to install. It says:

"Mr. Edison has settled upon a system in which a current is conveyed from the central station at a high potential to motor generators placed below the ground in close proximity to the rails and which convert the current transmitted at a pressure of say 1,000 volts to one of twenty volts between rail and rail, with a corresponding increase in the volume of the current.

"With the utilization of heavy currents at low voltage it became necessary to devise apparatus to pick up with absolute certainty 1,000 amperes of current through two inches of mud if necessary. And this Mr. Edison has done.

It was next necessary to obtain a joint between contiguous rails that would permit of the passage of several thousand amperes without introducing undue resistance. This has also been accomplished with the result that an experimental track of about a quarter of a mile in length has been in actual operation near Mr. Edison's laboratory for some time past and working to his complete satisfaction. It has been said that carriages with iron wheels passing over the tracks would short circuit the current and cause the destruction of the dynamo machines, as well as 'chew up' the short-circuiting vehicle. To test this Mr. Edison actually short-circuited his experimental track with a carriage having iron wheels and succeeded in getting only 200 amperes through the wheels, the low voltage used, as well as the insulating properties of the axle grease, being sufficient to account for the small quantity of current which actually passed through.

"Regarding the leakage of current between rail and rail, Mr. Edison's experiments have proved that at a potential difference of twenty volts the loss, under the worst conditions, with a wet and salted track, is only five-horse power per mile, while very wet weather would involve a loss of only two and a half horse-power. As regards the question of safety to human beings and animals likely to come in contact with the rail, it is needless to say that the effect of twenty volts upon the human body is imperceptible, and actual experiment has also shown that horses are not affected by it in the slightest degree. While not differing in principle from the ordinary type of street railway motor, the motor on this system would be practically waterproof without necessitating any special protective covering for that purpose.

"The cost of this system, Mr. Edison estimates, will vary between $30,000 and $100,000 per mile of double track, not including the cost of the stations and depending between these limits upon the amount of traffic. The running expenses, he estimates, will be exactly the same as those on the overhead trolley wire system. Where the traffic permits of it the system can be applied with greater economy than a cable road."

We know how it is—and we therefore recommend Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25 cts. Hard to beat—Salvation Oil, the great pain exterminator, is very popular. Price 25 cts.

PIONEER SKETCHES.

(By Dr. H. Scott, of Lancaster, Ohio.)

No. 62.

The Hunters.

There was a class of men specially denominated hunters; albeit every frontiersman was in some sense a hunter. It was seldom that a cabin was seen without one or more rifles lying in the hooks. The hooks were a kind of rack in which the gun rested. They were for the most part forked sticks nailed to the logs of the wall or to the joice, where they were easily got hold of when wanted. The rifle was a necessary weapon of defense against Indian depredation, besides bringing down game which contributed so largely to the pioneer's table.

But, strange as it seem to us, there were professional hunters. There were men who preferred the depths of the forest in the improvised tent, or rocky cavern, to the quiet of domestic life with their families in the rude log cabin It was no rare occurence for men of this class to leave their families for weeks, and even months at a time, and live alone in some den of discomfort far back in the wilds of the forest, subsisting on roasted game—the family often illy provided for, and always liable to sickness, accident and the dreaded tomahawk of the savage. Daniel Boone and David Crockett were men of this class; but they were found everywhere, in some degree. The hunter made himself appear as much like a wild beast as possible, by dressing often in skins from head to foot. Such were seen all through the frontier settlements. They were always on foot, and were never seen without the rifle across the shoulder. They seldom followed any road or path, but could be seen crossing them at right angles. And Sunday was to them as all other days. If there was a meeting they often dropped in, leaning their guns against the wall on the outside, or, if it rained, standing them inside. They were always welcomed to the meetings, as was everybody in those primitive days.

They seemed to hunt for the mere pleasure of the thing—perhaps, rather, the excitement, for there was little direct profit grew out of it. The flesh of the deer and the bear, it is true, was used as food by everybody, but it was easy to kill it far in excess of requirements of the sparse population, and there was seldom any market for the commodity. The skins were useful in various ways, both for garments and bed covers, and could generally be sold at some price. The hams of the deer were always marketable at Cincinnati, or any of the larger towns, if they could be transported there. They were first dried—called dried venison—and usually sold by the pair, or saddle as it was called.

It was common when one or more deer were shot, or a bear, to secure them in some way against wolves while the hunter went to fetch a horse or other help to bring in the game. At a very early day three young men were camped near where Hillsboro, Highland county, now is. Their purpose was to hunt. They had at one time killed three fine deer, and after swinging them up above the reach of wolves, went several miles to procure horses to pack them in, and were gone over night. Upon their return, and when within 50 yards of their game, they were fired upon by Indians from ambush who discovered their camp and the deer swung up, and waited for them, knowing that they would be back. One was killed at the first shot, one was wounded and taken prisoner, and the third got away unhurt. And this was by no means a solitary instance of hunters being betrayed by the wily savages incidentally discovering their camp in their absence.

From the very nature of the hunters' occupation they required habits of solitude. They were a class that seemed to love to be alone, or at least to travel alone. And even on to infirm old age they kept their guns in order, and were seen prowling about the woods with rifle on shoulder and shot pouch and powder horn swung under the right arm, as if there was yet something for them to do in their favorite calling.

But notwithstanding the apparent love of solitude of the old professional hunter, there was nothing so elated them, nothing half so enjoyable, as to sit in company and go over by the hour the thrilling exploits they had performed, the perils and hair-breadth escapes they had passed through from wounded beasts, but in which they were always victorious. Children loved to listen to their stories. I recall many of them from my childhood. When an old hunter called and got fairly started in on his experiences, even midnight brought no sleep to our eyelids. Their narratives were moreover inspiring and made many a hunter of the boys who listened to them.

HOW DID SHAKESPEARE DIE?

Evidence That Pneumonia Made Short Work of Him.

The story told by Ward in his diary, still in the treasures of the library of the Medical society of London, tells nothing about the poet's long conviviality, although the poet himself leaves much to be inferred in that line. But it does convey that just previously to his last natal day he joined some boon companions (Ben Jonson and Drayton the player) in convivial pursuits, and that the result was his death from the "surfeit."

This shows a rapid death after a convivial outbreak, and supports the suggestion that the cause of death was some respiratory mischief. Nothing is more probable than that the mischief was what would be called in his (Shakepeare's) day "a peri-pneumonia, an inflammation or impostume of the lungs, with a shortness of breath."

The description of the pneumonic cast of face after death is also true, and, taken in combination with the climatic conditions so faithfully noticed, adds strong and, as far as can be gathered from the facts coming down to us, all but conclusive evidence that the poet of England—some think of the world—died of that form of pneumonic disease lately named "pneumoparesis," a form apt to strike suddenly and fatally those in whom the nervous energy has become reduced.—London Lancet.

LATEST THING IN SCHEMES.

How a Green Youth Was Taken In.

He Gave Up His Watch for Bottles Supposed to Contain Opium, But Which Did Not.

New York, Nov. 20.—Max Goldsmith called with Lawyer Daniel O'Connell yesterday upon Assistant District Attorney Mott, told a peculiar story and was referred by Mr. Mott to Inspector Byrnes.

Goldsmith read an advertisement a few days ago to the effect that an easy living could be made by addressing the advertiser. Goldsmith answered the advertisement and was called upon by a fellow who gave the name of George Sherwood, and carried with him 25 small bottles, very like mucilage bottles, containing a dark, thick material, which he said was opium. Sherwood added that Goldsmith could make a good penny by selling the opium.

"But I cant pay for it," Goldsmith remarked, whereupon Sherwood said that all that was required was some kind of security. Sherwood apparently disliked accepting Goldsmith's $50 gold watch and chain as security, but finally took them. Then Goldsmith started out to sell 25 bottles full of sawdust and molasses. He was very disconsolate yesterday while telling his experience to Mr. Mott, and looked upon his exhibits with remorse.

MINERS STRIKE.

Swanee, O., Nov. 20.—The miners at the Standard mines at Saltillo, have struck because of the demand for an advance of five cents a ton was refused. It is feared that all the miners on the Columbus, Scioto and Hocking railroad will strike. About 700 men are now out.

VICTIMS OF A MEAN FRAUD.

Counterfeit Tickets Sold to Five Italians.

They Were Smuggled Aboard Only to be Put Ashore When Discovered by the Officers.

New York, Nov. 20.—The sending ashore at Moriches, L. I., of five Italians from an outward bound steamer has brought to the notice of the authorities a nicely arranged scheme to swindle poor, economical persons desirous of making a visit to the Fatherland.

Contract Labor Inspectors Conkling and Osborne, who went to Moriches and found the men in the custody of Captain Seaman, of the life saving station, returned to this city yesterday morning with the Italians.

It was at first suspected that the steamer was coming into this port and that the landing of the men was an attempt to violate the immigration laws. This is not so, however. The five men had lived and worked in this city for more than one year and were on their way back to Italy when put off the steamer.

They are Giovanni Naglis, Giuseppe Sementa, Dominico Calanzaro, Rosaro Timpani and Scalisia Francisco. Their story, as told to me through an interpreter, is as follows:

With pick and shovel they had labored for many months in and around this city. They had lived frugally and saved their money. They decided to escape the rigors of our winter and to pass it in their Italian homes. At the steamship offices they learned that they could not make the passage for less than $30 each.

Afterward they were told by some of their countrymen that Angelo Marino, of No. 113 Mulberry street, could arrange a passage at much lower rates.

They visited him and they say he agreed to secure passage for each of them for $16, stipulating that to secure the advantage of this low rate they would have to board the ship some hours before she sailed and would be compelled to keep out of sight of the vessel's officers until they were at sea.

"It's a little private deal of mine with the purser," Marino is said to have explained.

After paying the money they were taken in charge by Ancello Sorrentino, a young Italian, who took them and their baggage to Brooklyn and to No. 30 Carroll street, where they remained four days.

They were taken to a wharf, where they do not know—on Thursday, were smuggled aboard a vessel, the name of which they did not learn, and were carefully stowed away. Two days later the vessel sailed.

A few hours after the voyage began their presence on shipboard was discovered and they were taken before the captain. Slips of paper purporting to be passage tickets had been given them by Marino, and these they showed the captain, explaining Marino's alleged "deal" with the purser. The supposed tickets were not good, and the ship's officers denied all knowledge of Marino or the mysterious stowaway.

Then they were summarily put ashore, and they were so brutally treated on the trip from the steamship to the beach that, fearing for their safety, they each gave $5 to the sailors.

HARD LINES FOR BENJAMIN.

Foraker Forces Will Fight His Renomination.

They Are Fighting Mad to Think the Administration at Washington Should Boom Sherman's Cause.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The probabilities are that Bro. Harrison will not get much assistance from Ohio toward the fulfillment of his ambition to be renominated.

There has been considerable Blaine sentiment in that state all along. It has been carefully warmed and cared for by Mr. Conger, and now the Foraker people may be relied upon to do what they can to injure the administration. From this time forward there promises to be a very active anti-administration faction headed by the "Fire Alarm."

It has been suspected that at the proper time the influence of the national administration would be thrown to the assistance of Senator Sherman in his fight for re-election.

Foraker has been making a very shrewd contest for the senatorship and has gained sufficient strength to make the Sherman people uneasy, and to cause Mr. Foster and Mr. Harrison to appreciate the necessity of some utterance to strengthen Mr. Sherman's cause.

In his address before the Ohio Republican Association Mr. Foster came out flatly and declared he believed it to be to the best interests of the State and party to return Senator Sherman to the senate.

Mr. Foster said afterwards in an interview that Senator Sherman would be nominated in the caucus on the first ballot.

A number of Foraker men who were in the hall retired immediately after Foster's declaration. There is now a great deal of bitter feeling among the ex-Governor's friends here.

It is expected that they will hit back and hit hard at Secretary Foster and at the President too, assuming that Foster would not have spoken as he did without the approval of Mr. Harrison.

The Foraker folks, while admitting Mr. Foster's right to an opinion in the matter, regard it as a little out of place for one occupying the position Mr. Foster does, as a representative of the national administration, to take sides in this public manner.

It is believed that this is the signal for a contest that will be hot from start to finish, increasing in bitterness as it advances. Foraker's friends claim that he will not give up until he is finally wiped out. It is probable that the fight will assume an administration and anti-administration phase, and while it is entirely probable that Mr. Sherman will be re-elected, the matter will not end there.

ENDED HER DAYS.

St. Louis, Nov. 20.—Miss Julia Albietz, aged 25, a teacher in the Pope school of this city, committed suicide at the residence of her widowed mother, by shooting herself through the head. The act was committed while the young lady was alone in the house. It is believed the suicide was due to brooding over the desertion of her lover.

Carmencita's Engagement Next Monday—Last Round From the Cartridge Box.

Everywhere that Carmencita has appeared, the mere announcement of her coming has been sufficient to insure a packed house and the indications are that Toledo will be no exception, as considerable interest is being taken in her engagement here at the Wheeler next Monday night.

A well-known dramatic writer says of Carmencita's dance: "She bounds upon the stage and stands before the footlights, her knees bent forward and her head flung back, and with a smile upon her face. The soft, seductive music of the Spanish Students who accompany her was heard, 1-2-3; before the audience had time to fathom the meaning of her smile, she had changed her pose,—legs, arms, bust and head are in a voluptuous whirl, now swaying forwards, now backwards, now twisting and turning in serpentine curves until the dancer's black hair almost touched her back, and her whole frame threatened dislocation, while the pink satin of her skirts flashed to and fro, fell, whirled about, and finally all at once grew motionless. She has all the abandon of the Nautch girls, with none of the vulger suggestiveness which they display. Carmencita, who has been rightly termed "the empress of dance," is not a small woman and she is, considering her size, the perfection of grace. There is a sinuous swing about her which she uses with subtle skill.

Cartridge Box.

The last round of the Cadets' "Cartridge Box" was fired last evening and it was a most telling volley. Memorial hall was packed with the friends of the boys and it was a fitting climax to their splendid entertainment of three evenings. The farce was carried out with better success than on any other night and the dancing was kept up until 2 o'clock in the morning. The goods in the fair department were disposed of by lot and all were well satisfied. On the whole the entertainment of the Cadets has been an unqualified success and the company is to be congratulated.

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. Every one suffers from Catarrh in the Head. Those who don't have it suffer from those who do. It's a disease you can't keep to yourself.

Here are some of the symptoms: Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these likely to be present at once.

The cure for it—for Catarrh itself, and all the troubles that come from it—a perfect and permanent cure, is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The worst cases yield to its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties. A record of twenty-five years has proved that to its proprietors—and they're willing to prove it to you.

They do it in this way: If they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing, they'll pay you $500 in cash. Can you have better proof of the healing power of a medicine?

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market rather easier; corn steady. Country markets slow. Liverpool wheat dull, but quotations are unchanged; corn lower.

Liverpool received in past six days 748,300 bus. wheat, of which 448,300 was American; and 97,000 bus. of corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 954,431 bus., compared with 614,781 bus. on the same day last year.

Chartered at Good Figures.—The steamers Hadley and Panther were chartered yesterday to carry wheat from Duluth to Buffalo at 8c. This is the highest rate that has been paid this season.

Wheat in the Northwest.—Notwithstanding all the fussy parade about the wheat blockade in the Dakotas the "Market Record" says:

"It is seldom at this season of the year that the elevators in the country are so well cleaned out as they are now. There are nearly 2,000,000 bu less wheat in country elevators than there was a year ago, and about 1,500,000 bu less wheat in store in all places in the northwest than last year."

It appears to us, from above, that there has been misrepresentation. It also appears that commercial untruths are frequent in these days, and it keeps writers very busy in asserting to-day and denying to-morrow.

The directors of the Chicago board of trade have passed resolutions favoring the holding of the "deep water convention" at Detroit.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 339,650 bu. in excess of the corresponding Friday in 1890. The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 257,476 bu. wheat and flour to an aggregate of 380,000 bu. Exports of corn 69,268 bu., and oats 15,000.

English markets as reported herein are dull and slow without change in quotations of wheat. Corn lower.

Michigan Wheat Crop.

The writer passed through southern Michigan yesterday and carefully noted the condition of the growing wheat. It is in a very weak and backward condition. Much of it is just appearing in sight, and none of it shows a growth which will average with other years at this date. There is nothing to prevent its making a good crop if it is not sujected to adverse weather conditions during the winter. But the wheat crop in Michigan is not in a condition to stand grief.

The Price of Wheat.

At the explosion of a fake concerning Russian exportation American dealers broke our markets 2c per bu. To all English and European dealers this decline will appear supremely absurd. In all the leading grain papers it is freely and frankly acknowledged that America must be depended on to supply the great deficiency in breadstuffs, and it is nearly as plainly intimated that we are not sharp enough to see the strength of our position.

Russian wheat export for the next four months is of little consequence, ukase or no ukase. Russia has already exported 40,000,000 bus. of wheat out of a famine crop, and if the movement is increased she must buy it back again, or else the whole Russian grain crop theory is a peck of lies. We look upon the break in our markets on Russian ukase account as without reason or foundation. America controls the situation, and let this fad inspire confidence to resist these bear attacks. Receipts are falling off all along the line, and it is incredible to expect a continuance of a large movement through the winter. Brace up, gentlemen. Wheat is worth for export all we were getting for it before the break.

The opening of wheat markets on this side indicated more firmness, and promised a reaction, and the price did advance about 1c bu, but there was not strength enough to hold, and half of the advance was lost.

Corn has been very erratic for November. Has been 7c up in Chicago, and less in proportion in New York. Other deals firm. Oats also higher.

In New York November and December wheat closed at a gain of 1-2c; November corn 2 5-8c, and oats 1 1-4c.

In Chicago December wheat closed at a gain of 3-4c; May 5-8c; November corn 5c; November oats, 1 1-4c.

Of course foreign markets close lower after the break on this side. Liverpool, Antwerp, Berlin and Paris are quoted closing lower.

In Toledo there has been a fair degree of activity in wheat futures and while the market has been firm most of the day, prices have not improved much at any time, and close in the same notch as yesterday for both December and May. On the call December sold at 97 1-2c to 3-8. May at $1.04 5-8 to 1-4. After the call Dec. sold at 97c to 97 1-2c and closed at 1-4. May sold at $1 04 1-4 to $1 04 1-2 and closed at 1-4.

Cash wheat was very quiet and not much business was reported. No. 2 soft sold and closed without change at 96 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 93c. No. 1 white at 94 1-2 @95c. No. 2 at 93c.

Corn.—No. 3 yellow, old, at 55 1-2c. Sample at 58c. No. 4 at 45c.

Oats—No. 2 at 32c. No. 3 at 31c.

Rye was about steady. No. 2 at 94 1-2c. No. 3 at 91c.

Clover seed was strong and higher. Prime for cash at $5.05. December $5.05 @5.10. November early at $5.00. January, $5.15. February, $5.20. March at $5.25. No. 2 at $4.85.

Help wanted	16	55
Situations procured	11	27

MRS. LEHANEY DISCHARGED.

The hearing of Mrs. B. Lehaney, arrested for practicing medicine without authority, was concluded in police court yesterday afternoon, and the defendant was discharged. Judge Sala held that the city had not proven the defendant had not been practicing 10 years, and if she has been practicing this length of time she can not be prosecuted.

THE DAY NURSERY.

The Day Nursery Circle of the King's Daughters meets to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Central Congregational church. Among the important matters to come before the Circle at this meeting is the consideration of the by-laws for the Circle, which will be presented for consideration by Mrs. Mary C. Daniels, chairman of the committee on laws. The Day Nursery, it is expected, will soon be opened.

THE STEREOPTICON VIEWS.

A goodly number of people attended the stereopticon entertainment and lecture by Rector Scadding at Trinity parish building last night. Switzerland was the subject and it was intelligently handled, both in illustration and explanation. To-night Mr. Scadding will take up the City of New York, with some of its noted surroundings, and will also show up some pictures of Toledo. The entertainment is given for the benefit of the Knights of Temperance, and a good share of patronage should be bestowed.

THE W. H. M. S. MEETING.

At the afternoon sesion of the Woman's Home Missionary Society convention in East Toledo yesterday afternoon, the program as announced in the Bee was observed, and a profitable time was had. Officers were chosen as follows: President, Mrs. S. Case, Bowling Green; treasurer, Mrs. Wertz; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Wickenden. The session was brought to a close with brief addresses by Rev. P. P. Pope, Rev. S. L. Roberts and Mrs. Case.

ONE FOR DR. EYMAN.

Rev. D. H. Moore, DD., editor of the Western Christian Advocate, visited the Cleveland insane asylum last week, and in closing an account of his observations for the Advocate, says:

"Dr. Eyman, the superintendent, conducted us through six wards. Every appointment was neat, tasteful, and cheerful. The attendants seemed to be well-qualified, careful, and kind. The patients were cleanly, and, even in the disturbed wards, apparently contented. Dr. Eyman is an experienced specialist; he is a democrat, but politics should cut no figure in our benevolent institutions, and we trust that Governor McKinley will be of our way of thinking.

THE TRI-STATE B. C.

To-morrow evening an entertainment will be given at Memorial hall, under the auspices of the Tri-State Business college. The program includes a number of vocal and instrumental numbers, recitations, etc. Among the participants are Miss Meda Adams, Miss Tinie Schaal, Miss Minnie Warren, Harry Hoagland, Miss Sadie Wertheim, Miss Sara W. Featherstone, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, and Carl Wuerfel, besides a song by the faculty—Mrs. J. W. Melchior, Mrs E. M. Demuth, and Messrs. C. H. Melchior, C. M. Robinson, J. W. Melchior and F. Templeton.

JUDGE DOYLE'S LECTURE.

Judge J. H. Doyle is to deliver a lecture for the members of the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A. in association hall to-night, on the subject of "Just the Boy Wanted for Law Practice." This is the second lecture of the course known as the "Boys' Lecture Course." Members of the department are entitled to bring one friend. The parents are especially requested to be present. Any boy (not a member) can obtain admission to any of the lectures for ten cents. A large number of boys is expected to hear the lecture this evening.

THE DR. QUIGLEY CASE.

Last evening's Columbus Dispatch has the following paragraph relative to the case brought by Father Quigley in the supreme court.

An effort was made to have the case of Patrick F. Quigley against the State taken out of its order, but the court announced that the time for the remainder of the term was all occupied, and agreed to set it for hearing early in January. This promises to be an exceedingly interesting case, since it involves the constitutionality of the compulsory education law, the plaintiff in error having refused to comply with the provision of the act requiring him to report to the clerk the names, ages, etc., of the pupils under his control.

This from this morning's Cleveland Leader:

Hon. Frank Hurd submitted an argument in the supreme court to-day in behalf of a motion by Patrick F. Quigley to advance his case against the state for an early hearing. Quigley is the Toledo Catholic priest who was mandamused to furnish information for public school statistics in regard to his parochial school. The motion was allowed and the case will be assigned for argument in January.

THEY WANT THEIR MONEY.

Norwalk People Think They Have Been Swindled.

They Have Appointed an Agent to Look into the Workings of a One Year Benefit Association.

Norwalk, Nov. 20.—The affairs of the Bay State league, a one-year order, having assumed a critical aspect, a meeting was called for Wednesday night to take some action in regard to sending some one to headquarters at Boston to investigate the matter and ascertain if the members here must lose all they have paid in during the past year.

There are 92 charter members in this order who have paid in $77 each, and whose certificates matured Oct. 20, to say nothing of dozens of others who joined the order at different periods later, and have paid in lesser amounts.

The 92 charter members have for several days been expecting their $100 apiece, as they have had assurances from headquarters that they would probably be paid off inside of a month from date of maturity of their certificates.

But instead of the money came the word that the supreme lodge was about to close up its affairs, as it would be impossible to continue their business without changing their present plans.

Information was also received by the local secretary that a convention had been called to meet in Boston on the 24th of this month, to which each subordinate lodge was requested to send delegates; this convention to decide what was the best plan to adopt.

At the meeting held last evening, Mr. A. M. Beatie was elected a delegate to represent Buckeye lodge, No. 26, and was given power of attorney to act for the lodge and to do what, in his judgemnt, may seem the best thing to be done.

Mr. Beattie will leave for Boston in a day or two, and in the meantime scores of anxious people will await with "fear and trembling" the rsult of the meeting at the "Hub."

One thing is certain—the day of one year benefit orders is about over for Norwalk, after the unfortunate experience of the past few weeks, and probably it is well enough that this is so.

STORMS ON THE LAKES,

And the Wreckage They Have Piled on the Shores.

The Hattie Estelle and Her Splendid Record.

She Plowed the Stormy Ocean with Safety to go to Pieces on the Lakes—The Chemung's Rough Passage—General Mention.

Manistee, Nov. 20.—The inquest on the bodies of Captain Estelle and the woman cook, Annie McGonnie, drowned in the wreck of the schooner Estelle, was concluded this afternoon. The verdict was "accidental and unavoidable drowning."

There is much indignation among people here at the conduct of the life-saving crew in waiting nearly two hours after the vessel struck the pier before putting a line on her. Captain Estelle's body was sent to Chicago by the masonic order, to which he belonged.

The schooner Hattie Estelle, which was wrecked with the loss of three lives at Manistee, Mich., Tuesday night, has a remarkable record. The vessel was built in 1873 by Captain J. L. Higgie, who gave her the name of Mary L. Higgie, after his little daughter. Shortly after she was in commission she took a load of deals from Green Bay to England, returning with a cargo of coal to Quebec.

After discharging her cargo she left Quebec for Cape Town, Africa, with a load of deals. Leaving there she went to Natal during the African war, and brought back to Cape Town a boat-load of prisoners. She then went to Natal, and brought a cargo of wool to Quebec. Her next trip was to Toulon, France, and Cadiz, Spain. At the latter port she took on a cargo of salt and brought it to Chicago, which was sold for $11.50 a ton. Captain Hatch, now master of the McDougall whaleback boat, which is making a cruise in the Pacific ocean, commanded her, and he never had an accident of any kind. Captain Higgie sold her to the ill-fated Captain Estelle three years ago for $8,000, the captain renaming her after his wife, Hattie Estelle.

The Wrecked Sawyer.

Cleveland, Nov. 20.—The wrecking steambarge Mary Groh came in last evening from the schooner J. D. Sawyer, which is on the beach above Avon Point. She has been working there whenever the weather would permit, which was not often.

The Sawyer's anchors and chains have been recovered, but the water there is so shallow that the Groh has been unable to get within four or five hundred feet of the wreck.

The Sawyer is covered with ice, but work will be resumed as soon as possible. She will be raised on jacks, after which she will be launched into deep water.

Covered With Ice.

Ashtabula, O., Nov. 20.—The captain of the wrecking tugs Champion and Swain drove down the shore yesterday to where the schooner Stewart is aground. He found that the late storms had done her no injury, but the water which had dashed over the boat had frozen so that she resembled an iceberg. The tugs, which have been weather-bound here since Monday, left this morning for the scene of the wreck.

Had a Rough Time.

Buffalo, Nov. 20.—The Chemung arrived at noon, steered by two tugs with lines from her quarters. The run from Erie was made in 6 1-2 hours. The tugs were nearly foundered. The Owego will take the Chemung's cargo.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 20.—A dispatch from Goderich, Ont., says the other schooner, supposed to be the "George," which had been flying signals of distress off that port for 48 hours, foundered last night and all hands were lost.

The Ed Kelley in Distress.

Goderich, Ont., Nov. 20.—The life boat has succeeded in reaching the large schooner heretofore reported at anchor off here. It is the "Ed Kelley," bound from Escanaba, Mich., to Cleveland with a cargo of iron.

The vessel is leaking and her foresail is gone. Men have been sent to assist the crew and a supply of provisions furnished them.

The dismasted vessel that was at anchor farther out cannot be sighted this morning. A tug is now out searching for her. The storm has abated considerably.

FRIGHTFULLY MANGLED.

A Well-Known Glassworker Fatally Injured by the Cars.

Findlay, O., Nov. 20.—(Special)—A well-known glassworker by the name of Jerry Donnavin, of Bowling Green, was frightfully mangled by the cars on the T., C. & C. at about 9 o'clock this morning, between Hungen and Trombley.

He was out hunting and attempted to get a ride on the oil train.

In attempting to get on or off the train while in motion he was thrown under the wheels and had an arm and one leg cut off and a horrible gash cut in his forehead.

He is probably dead before this time.

VICTOR HUGO AND THE FLOWERS.

On Victor Hugo's birthday it was for many years the custom in France to send him flowers. They came in baskets, in bouquets, in poor little bunches tied with grass, in costly masses.

The poet declared that he could tell which were bought at the shops, and which had been plucked by the hands which had planted and tended them.

"That magnificent lily," he would say, "might be bought at any florist's shop. It means nothing but the money paid for it. But that bunch of herbs could grow only on the Garonne, and that blue starflower can be found nowhere but in Normandy.

"They have an individual flavor. They speak to me the peculiar language of their place and people. They alone have real value."

BEDROOM CARPETS.

There is an excellent way of laying bedroom carpets in houses where rugs are not the rule, says Good Housekeeping. Fasten small, strong hooks in the baseboard, close to the floor, and on the edge of the carpet sew corresponding rings. Slip the rings over the hooks, and the carpet is securely laid. Of course a few tacks must be put where the carpet crosses a doorway, but these are quickly removed. By this method, which is employed in the sleeping rooms of many hotels, a carpet may frequently be taken up, thoroughly shaken and replaced, without much more labor than would be required to sweep it while on the floor.

AT THE HARVEST OF DEATH

Much grain is prematurely reaped by the scythe of disease that might have ripened to a golden maturity if "minor" bodily troubles had been attended to in time. Nothing is truer than this—bodily ailments not only grow apace, but beget one another. Thus biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia follow close on the heels of one another, flourish together, the one perpetuating the other, and begetting a numerous progeny of later ailments more or less severe as their cause is more or less disregarded and neglected. Incipient rheumatism, malaria and "slight" inactivity of the kidneys, of what dire disaster they are the cause when no or but slight attention is paid to their early warnings. Check these "minor" ailments with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and forestall the inexorable reaper, who exacts the forfeiture of life as the penalty for disregarding the means of preserving it.

A clear complexion is usually the result of health—not of cosmetics.

Cosmetics can be used in moderation to advantage, but they are never so perfect as the bloom which good health imparts.

A clar complexion is usually the result of good circulation, and good circulation is the steady flow of the blood through the system.

When the blood is sluggish and the mind depressed nothing is so beneficial as a pure medicinal stimulant, and nothing so thoroughly stimulates the circulation or keeps it in regular and perfect order as pure whiskey.

While there are many so-called whiskeys there is only one that is admitted to be a purely medicinal one; namely, Duffy's Pure Malt.

Druggists and grocers may try to argue to the contrary because they make more money on cheap and inferior goods, but it is always best to bear in mind that the one which has been tested, tried and proven by experience is the only certain one.

HUGH CAVANAUGH

Gets Home All Right—What He Told a T.-S. News Gatherer.

Last evening's Cincinnati Times-Star has the following brief interview with Mr. Hugh Cavanaugh:

Hugh Cavanaugh, general worthy foreman of the K. of L., returned this morning from Toledo, where he has been in attendance upon the session of the general executive committee. Mr. Cavanaugh, in speaking of the committee's work, said: "The movement looking toward co-operation with the American Federation may have been a surprise to the general public and to the body of the order, but it has been under consideration in the board for some time.

"The feeling between the organizations has been more of a personal one than anything else. The matter will be brought before the federation at their meeting in December, but what will be their action I do not know. We made a number of changes in the ritual and constitution and in response to requests from the East and Northwest ordered the constitution printed in several different languages.

"The general board was authorized to represent the K. of L. at Indianapolis. They will go to that conference as a Cincinnati delegation. That is, they go advocating Cincinnati as the place for holding the conference in February, which was first set for Washington. They will be strong advocates of Cincinnati's claims as the greatest convention city in the country.

APPEALS TO THE GOVERNOR.

A Woman of Toledo Writes Mr. Campbell as to City Gambling.

A lady has written Gov. Campbell touching the gambling in Toledo, and appealing to him for aid. Of course, the governor is powerless in the matter, but the letter is printed for the benefit of the public:

Toledo, O., November 18, '91.

Governor Campbell: I have appealed to Mayor Emmick and the chief of police of this city to have all parties who run a policy gambling place arrested, but to no avail. They paid no attention to me. We are about to lose our home because my husband spends his money there. Will you please give Mayor Emmick orders to close them at once? I can locate two if he is not man enough to find them—one on the corner of Broadway and Knapp, and one on Summit, between Monroe and Jefferson. Will you please to attend to this matter at once and we may save our home yet? The Mayor scares them far enough to have them move from one place to another. I know of one man who has moved five times. Make the fine high enough sa that they cannot start up a new place and you will greatly oblige a poor WOMAN.
